TARIFF TINKERING

Corporation and Income Tax Prepositions Sidetracked.

TO DOUBLE WOODPULP DUTY

That Action Proposed Because Canada Will Prohibit Export of Logs to This Country—No Free Hides.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, June 19.—The Senate today covered a multitude of subjects in connection with the tariff bill but made final disposition of nothing of importance. Beginning at 10 o'clock the income and corporation tax questions received attention for some time and ultimately were postponed with the understanding that they should not be taken up again until after the tariff provisions proper should be finally settled.

Senator Aldrich from the committee on finance brought in the committee amendments to the wood pulp paragraph which proved to be a provision for doubling the duty on wood pulp coming from countries which undertake to prohibit the exportation of logs to this country.

Senator Beveridge presented an amendment for the cutting in two of the House ad valorem duty on cash registers. Mr. Aldrich also presented the finance committee's hide provision.

All these measures were brought to the attention of the Senate at different times during the day but so far as the action of the Senate was concerned were left at the close of the day where they stood at the beginning. The wood pulp amendment was recognized as an effort to retaliate upon Canada because of that country's effort to prevent the shipment of raw logs to the United States and Senators generally desired an opportunity to study the subject before voting upon it.

Senator Burton made objection to entering upon the final consideration of the cash register question without giving the National Cash Register Company, whose headquarters are in Ohio, an opportunity to be heard.

The income tax question went over because of the difficulty of getting Republican Senators to consider it until the tariff bill should be disposed of by the Senate. Mr. Bailey, who has held out for a vote in advance of the completion of the work on the schedules, at last conceded the postponement on the understanding that when the subject does come up a vote will be permitted on the direct question and not forced on a motion to refer the subject to a committee.

The hide amendment failed of final consideration for the lack of time. It was discussed at length and was still under immediate consideration when the Senate adjourned. The committee's amendment takes hides from the free list and imposes an ad valorem duty of 15 per cent. which is the Dingley law. Senator Lodge spoke for nearly three hours in opposition to the provision and Senator Clapp briefly in the same line.

There was not time for other speeches, but Senator Warren found opportunity during the day to make frequent remarks in the interest of the duty.

The Senate adjourned for the day at 5:05 o'clock P. M.

Elk Mountain Cotton Mills, of Asheville, N. C., capitalized at $225,000, were placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday. Stockholders will re-organize and took this step as the best method.

[illegible] MURDER A MYSTERY

Pretty [illegible] Worker Murdered by Well-to-[illegible]inese Lover—Was Victim of "Animal Revenge"—Escapes.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 19.—Until a dapper stockily built Chinese, well educated and when last seen, dressed in a black suit of American cut, is under arrest and put through the "third degree" it is likely the murder of Elsie Siegel, grand-daughter of the old German Civil War here, will remain unsolved.

Leon Ling, alias Leon Lee Lim, alias William L. Leon, alias William L. Lion, converted Mongolian, restaurant proprietor, admirer of white women and lover of Elsie Sigel, is the man. When or how he left New York while the girl's body lay cramped and decomposing in a battered trunk in the stuffy little room he formerly occupied remains to be learned. With him is supposed to be his erstwhile room mate, Chung Sin. Some reports say they are on their way to Vancouver via Panama.

Few murder cases in New York have developed more rapidly and at the same time come no nearer solution. That part of the story unraveled here today brought out principally the mysterious phases of the girl's life, her apparent craze for mission work among the Chinese, her associations with the man who is supposed to have killed her and lastly the fact that on his account she left home June 9th. It has also come out that the girl's mother, now prostrated according to reports, had been fearful of her daughter's safety ever since her disappearance and had searched Chinatown day after day without success.

Elsie Sigel's entry into the mysterious ways of the Chinese came through her now grief crazed mother, who was long identified with Sunday schools and mission work in Chinatown.

When Leon, whom she met at his Fort George restaurant became attentive, he was received at the Sigel home and continued his associations with the girl until his love became violent. Then it is said, her father forbade him to the house. It was then that Elsie, although afraid of her admirer, deserted her home never to be seen alive again by any of her household. Where she went directly after leaving home, whether she joined the Chinaman or was lured to the room and murdered must be cleared up.

Franz Sigle, an uncle of the murdered girl, and one of four sons who survive General Franz Sigel, has come to the aid of the stricken family of his brother. For some time, it is said, he has been estranged from them because of Mrs. Sigel's activity among the Chinese. He said he warned her many times against associating with Chinese in the hope of converting them to Christianity.

"Speaking as the uncle of Elsie Sigel," he said, "I would warn all women against association with Chinamen, either in church or otherwise. I do not believe one in a thousand of so-called conversions of Chinamen is genuine. My niece was an innocent. She honestly believed it was her mission to Christianize Chinamen.

"Too late she realized that the feeling of the Mongolian toward white women is animal feeling. I believe this Chinaman, Leon, killed Elsie in a spirit of animal revenge."

STUDENTS' CONFERENCE ENDS

In Session in Asheville for Ten Days. Several Addresses.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Asheville, N. C., June 19.—The Southern Students Conference of Y. W. C. A. will close tomorrow with special devotional exercises at the Elizabeth Boyd Memorial chapel after being in session here for ten days.

Today's sessions were of the usual routine order with addresses by Dr. C. A. R. Janvier, of Philadelphia, Professor Jesse L. Cunningham, of Nashville and the Rev. Robert Wells Veach, of New York.

CONFEDERATE CONSTITUTION

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, June 19.—There has been deposited in the library of Congress and placed on exhibition in the manuscripts division, the original engrossed permanent constitution of the Confederate States of America."

The constitution was adopted March 11, 1861, by the Confederate Congress, at Montgomery, Ala., and signed by delegates from South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. When the capital was moved to Richmond it ws carried to that city and upon the evacuation of Richmond was sent with other papers farther South where it was rescued by Mr. F. G. DeFontaine, at Chester, S. C., from a band of looters.

Mr. DeFontaine kept this and other documents for some years and in 1883 it passed into the hands of Mrs. G. W. J. De Renne, whose son, Mr. W. J. De Renne, of Savannah, Ga., now owns it and has recently deposited it, as a loan with the librarian of Congress.

FIVE DIE IN FIRE

All Trapped in by Flames and Met Fearful Death.

68 HORSES ALSO PERISHED

Explosion of Gasolene Caused Flames to Spread Rapidly and Livery Stable Was Soon Consumed. Loss is $30,000.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Duluth, Minn., June 19.—Five men and 68 horses were burned to death late this afternoon in a fire which partly destroyed the board of trade livery stables.

The building was damaged to the extent of $30,000. It was owned by Barrett and Zimmerman, horse dealers of St. Paul, who with Captain D. E. Stephens, who conducted the livery business, owned most of the horses, although a large number of the animals were being boarded there.

The fact that the men had lost their lives was not known until after the fire had been subdued, when firemen in looking through the ruins discovered their charred remains near the rear entrance, through which they had tried to escape. The building was also used to store automobiles and three of these went up in smoke. Various theories are advanced as to the cause of the fire, the most plausible being that there was an explosion of gasolene, a quantity of which was stored on the premises.

The bodies of the men are now at the morgue awaiting identification.

CROATAN MISSIONARY BEATEN

Robeson Citizens Reject His Doctrine of Social Equality.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 19.—A sensational personal encounter occurred here about noon today in which Rev. Sam Stephens and three gentlemen from the country were engaged. Mr. Stephens is doing missionary work among the Croatans in this county, having been sent here from the Northern Methodist Church.

It is reported that since he has been among these people he has been endeavoring to instill into their minds the fact that social equality was the proper thing for them and the white people. He seems to busy himself trying to stir up strife between the races and as a result of his work on yesterday a young man, who is in poor health and unable to defend himself, was terribly beaten by a Croatan while the preacher stood by and after the Croatan was through with his part told the young man if he was not satisfied that he would give him some more.

Today the preacher came to town as did also two brothers and a brother-in-law of the young man who was beaten yesterday. Without any foolishness they proceeded to make it necessary for the parson to go to the hospital for repairs.

In the mayor's court the young men were fined for an affray and while not at all necessary the citizens paid the fines promptly. It had as well be understood that the citizens of this section will not stand for any such business as this fellow wants to encourage, and the wisest course for him to pursue is to leave at once. Not wait until next week. He has rented a house in Lumberton and partly furnished it, but such a character as he is not wanted here.

The general opinion is that he would be more useful in some section where missionaries are needed worse than here.

IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Street Railway Company of Fayetteville Seeks Protection of Courts.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Fayetteville, N. C., June 19.—The Consolidated Street Railway and Power Company of this city was placed in the hands of a receiver by Judge C. C. Lyon, resident judge of this district, of Elizabethtown, today, Mr. W. D. McNeill, president of the company, being appointed receiver. The action was taken on complaint of Mrs. Mary M. B. MacRae, of this city, one of the creditors of the corporation.

Suit had been entered against the company by several outside parties, and as the directors were unable to float a bond issue before the entering of the suit, it was deemed advisable to submit to the receivership, thus placing the property under the protection of the court until the stockholders can resume control. Liabilities are about $60,000.

Mr. McNeill was promoter of this enterprise and its existence is due to his untiring energy.

This action will not affect the operation of the system, value of the property, nor the progress of Fayetteville. The cars are now running and will be able to handle the great crowds expected here Monday.

TAKES COBE CUP WITH BUICK

Exciting Fnish at West Point, Ind. Yesterday—Knox Captured Second Honors—Many Accidents on the Course.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Crown Point, Ind, June 19.—A Buick 40-horse power car, driven by Louis Chevrolet, won the Cobe cup, the major event of the western Vanderbilt, over the 395.65 miles of the Crown Point Lowell course today by the hair raising margin of one minute and five seconds. Bourque in control of Knox, who captured second honors, made so desperate a bid for victory that not until the winning machine flashed over the tape was the result at all certain to the frantic spectators.

It was eight hours, one minute and thirty nine seconds after Starter Wagner had uttered the word "go" to the ultimate victor that he crossed the line for the last time. Owing to the fact that he was the 10th entrant in a field of twelve, and that Bourque crowded so perilously close to him in the final laps, the Knox car, No. 2 on the list, was the first to pass the tape, his time being 8:02.44. At this time Chevrolet was somewhere near the beginning of the long south stretch with eight minutes in which to seize the prize. As he flashed by the stations along this part of the course, the news of his location, transmitted by wire to the judges' stand and through the watchers wrought them to a climax of enthusiasm. The intense anxiety attending his movements to the last foot was due in the main to a lively sense of the possibility of a disaster evolved by a multitude of rough experiences characterizing the day.

The following table shows the record of each car and order of finish:

Buick—Chevrolet	8:01:39
Knox—Bourque	8:02:44
Locomobile—Robertson	8:14:30
Fiat—Hearne	8:22:04
Stoddard Dayton—Englebeck..	8:26:05

The race which showed an average of 49.26 miles an hour, was unusually slow for cars of the sixty horse power class. This was even slower than that of the light power machines in the Indiana trophy event of yesterday, which reached an average speed of 51 1-2 miles. The trouble which assauled cars and drivers from the very beginning today and the fact that the roadway at the turns was literally cut to ribbons by the almost continuous performance of the two days racing upset all calculations.

The most conspicuous feature of today's race from a technical point of view was the wonderfully consistent performance of Chevrolet. From the start, when for six laps he ran neck to neck with Denison, in a Knox, his average scarcely varied eighteen seconds. Denison being put out of the running. Robertson in a Locomobile, ran a close second to the Buick for three laps, jumped into the lead in the tenth and held it twice around again, while Chevrolet fell back.

For the next three rounds Chevrolet wrestled with a load of worry. Summoning up all his failing strength, he sprang into the lead in the 14th lap and was never threafter headed.

Bourque's performance, while not so spectacular, was steady and consistent. At no time was he worse than fourth. George Robertson, piloting one of the Locomobile entries, lost his race gamely. He ran consistently.

He was never worse than fifth in point of elapsed time. When Chevrolet's cylinder valve got out, Robertson assumed the lead and maintained it until the lap, when his magneto troubles began. At one time he had a lead of 24 minutes and it was generally conceded that, barring just what did happen, he could not be beaten.

ATTELL WINS THE FIGHT

Neil Knocked Out in 18th Round. Bantam Weight Champion.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Arena, San Francisco, June 19.—Monte Attell knocked out Frankie Neil in the 18th round of a scheduled 25 round battle at Coffreths arena this afternoon. The contest was for the bantam weight championship of the United States.

Neil was the aggressor throughout and he forced Attell to break ground time and time again. His punches lacked their old time force, however, and in only two rounds did he appear to have any chance. Attell peppered Neil's nose and mouth with straight lefts, brought over crushing rights on the jaw and occasionally rapped Frankie in the mid-section with a solid right or left.

The knock out in the 18th was only a postponed affair from the preceeding round in which the gong saved Neil. In the 18th he staggered in the ring with Attell following him and sending him hard with lefts to jaw. After a fusillade of blows Neil sank gradually to the floor and was counted out.

SALE OF THE STATE BONDS

Raleigh Savings Bank Highest Bidder. Assessment of Bank Stock—Municipal Row on Board of Aldermen—Other News.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 19.—The Council of State today decided unanimously for the State Treasurer to accept the bid of the Raleigh Savings Bank for the entire issue of $500,000 State bonds at 103, this giving the State $513,775 principal and premium. There were eight other bidders.

The next highest was the Securities Trust Company, of Spartanburg, S. C., at 102.77. Wachovia Loan and Trust Company, Winston, bid for $350,000 at 1,02075. Bids of Murchison National Bank were for batches of $100,000 each at 101.77; 101.52; 101.27; 101.02; par 77, interest added in each bid. Other bids were Weil, Roth & Co., Cincinnati, par less $20,000; John H. Watkins, New York, lump bid $503,350 or par 67; W. H. Sladen, New York, $50,000 at 102.10; Fee & Davis, Baltimore, $250,000 for $251,575 and interest; Townsend, Scott & Co., Baltimore, $150,000 at 102.56 and interest.

Overruling all exceptions and special pleas of the adequacy of present accommodations and inability to bear the expense of a new and differently located building by the Southern Railway Company, the Corporation Commission orders prompt compliance with its order of two months ago for a new freight depot at Morganton.

Two important charters were issued today. The Central Loan and Trust Company, Burlington, capital $25,000 by J. A. Davidson and others, and The Citizen's Insurance and Realty Co., Thomasville, capital $10,000 by A. H. Ragan and others.

Sherwood Upchurch, the "belligerent" member of the Raleigh Board of Aldermen, stirred a decided breeze last night in connection with a caucus of the other members of the new board for agreement on officers to be elected at the July meeting. Upchurch is a Democrat like the rest, voting the straight ticket. He charges that a number of the other members who participate in the caucuses are national Republicans. In fact a number of them do vote the National Republican ticket. Last night Upchurch forced his way into the caucus, demanding his right to participate. He finally said he would withdraw if each member would express his personal preference for his withdrawal. This was done and after expressing contempt for the aldermen individually as to their official conduct, Alderman Upchurch withdrew. Thereafter agreements were reached whereby Walter Clark, Jr., will become city attorney; Dr. T. M. Jordan, city physician and C. M. Walters, sanitary inspector; E. E. Broughton member of the Board of Audit and Finance; B. S. Jerman city treasurer.

State Auditor Dixon on whom has devolved for several years the assessment of taxes on shares of bank stock throughout the State, returned today from Morehead and expressed surprise that the Corporation Commission which now has this duty under the act of the recent Legislature, is taking the position that banks cannot credit for State bonds held in assessing the shares of stock for taxation. He says this credit has been allowed all along under the authority of rulings of the Attorney General and that to change this practice will mean to force the North Carolina banks out of the market for North Carolina bonds. The ruling is having a serious effect on the sale of the present $500,000 bond issue and will have a still more serious effect on the several millions of bonds the State Auditor believes will be provided for by the next Legislature for the State institutions and for adequate State buildings at the capital.

The position taken by the Commission is that State bonds are exempt from taxation in the hands of corporations or individuals but that they cannot be deducted from the value of shares of stock which are listed for and taxed to the owner of such shares.

Lumberton, N. C., June 19.—The rains which had been falling in this section for several days to such an extent as to cause some anxiety among farmers, has ceased and if no more falls within the next day or two much grass will be put out of business.

If the county or town authorities expect to produce a paying crop of hay from the grass and weeds growing on the Court House Square, the stuff should be persuaded to do a little better by fertilizing. It is throwing away time to let the whole thing go to seed in its present condition.

By bunching hits in two innings, the seventh and ninth, one of them by Hart for an extra base, gave Raleigh the game with Wilmington yesterday afternoon in a beautiful exhibition of the National sport witnessed by 1,200 people.

The result was in doubt until the last man was out in the ninth, as the amateurs would say and the fans and fannabelles were praying for a lucky hit until the last Sailor had gone to the willow and succumbed to the magnificent work of the Mighty Brandon, who was touched up for six safeties against seven for the locals, but these were well distributed. The tragic story is told in the following detail by innings:

First—Dawson out, pitcher to first; Crozier beat out a bunt down third base line; Haas up and Crozier stole second; Haas flew out to right; Hoffman walked but Hart flew out to right. Wilmington: Hemp out to first unassisted; Nichols hit safe to short; Brodie up and Nichols caught at second; Brodie fanned.

Second—Hoover out, second to first; Brumfeld flew to Brodie; Rowe to Smith. Wilmington: Smith out, third to first; Levy flew to left; Sharp to right.

Third—Brandon out, second to first; Dawson flew to Hemp; Crozier walked; Haas up and Crozier got second and third on Kite's wild throw to second; Haas out, short to first. Wilmington: Kite out, short to first; Jayes walked; Grainger sacrificed; Hemp out, pitcher to first.

Fourth—Hoffman out, pitcher to first; Hart singled to left; Hoover up and Hart caught at second; Kite to Jayes; Hoover flew to Brodie. Wilmington: Nichols out, third to first; Brodie singled to right; Smith up and Brodie stole second; Smith was hit by pitched ball; Levy singled to centre filling the bases with one down; Sharp hit to short and Brodie was caught at home; Kite flew to centre and the side died with three men on bases.

Fifth—Brumfeld out at first on beautiful stop of Sharp; Rowe fanned; Brandon flew to Nichols. Wilmington: Jayes fanned; Grainger singled to centre; Hemp hit to pitcher and Grainger went to third; Nichols singled to centre and Grainger scored; Brodie up and Nichols was caught at second.

Sixth—Dawson out at first unassisted; Crozier third to first; Haas walked; Hoffman flew out on difficult catch by Grainger. Wilmington: Brodie flew to left; Smith walked; Levy up and Smith stole second. Levy drew transportation; Sharp flew to second who doubled Levy at first.

Seventh—Hart out second to first; Hoover singled through third; Brumfeld singled to centre and on throw-in Hoover got third; Rowe bunted safely and Hoover scored; Brandon up and Brumfeld was caught at third, Kite to Smith; Brandon flew to Brodie. Wilmington: Kite popped out to catcher; Jayes out, pitcher to first; Grainger flew to short.

Eighth—Dawson out, pitcher to first; Crozier lined out to Smith; Haas to Brodie. Wilmington: Hemp singled through second; Nichols and Brodie sacrificed, but he died on third while the mighty Smith fanned.

Ninth—Hoffman flew to Grainger; Hart hit to right for two bases; Hoover singled to left centre and Hart scored; Brumfeld flew to Jayes, who doubled Hoover at second. Wilmington: Levy flew to right; Sharp flew to right; Kite out, short to first.

CARDINAL WARNS WOMEN.

The woman suffrage movement is growing in the United States, but the clergy of the various denominations oppose the movement. The suffragettes have been putting in some strong licks, and the movement has grown to such an extent that many high authorities in church circles have seen fit to say something to stem the tide. At Emmitsburg, Md., on Friday, in an address to the girl graduates of St. Joseph's College and Academy, Cardinal Gibbons, who presented the diplomas, declared against woman suffrage, saying in part:

"I am entirely opposed to woman suffrage, not because I hate the women, but I love them, and want them to fulfill the mission for which God intended them. If you play in the arena of politics you will be covered with its dust. If you grasp too much, you will lose everything. Nowhere is woman so honored as in the United States. This is largely due to the chivalry and courtesy of the men, and if you are protected by the male sex, what more do you want?

"I want to remind you that woman has a great mission in life. You should therefore, have a deep sense of your responsibility in the domestic walks of life. You cannot hope to preach in the church, but you can preach in your homes and reach those with whom you come in contact in your daily lives. Preach to your fathers and brothers. Woe be to society."

The New Woman is refusing to allow men to say what the proper sphere of woman is. The Indian used to make the women carry the luggage and the custom so grew on him that no self-respecting Indian would be caught acting so much like a woman as to be caught carrying luggage. The Indian idea has passed, and the New Woman would have us believe that we men now consider things that are her sphere that are no more so than the burden carrying custom of the Indian squaw is.

The Cardinal bases his plea on the argument that it will lower the standard of women to enter politics, while the suffragettes argue that it will raise the standard of politics and uplift men if women are allowed to vote. Whatever is the right view, there are signs that the women want to cut loose from the sphere that men have established for her.

DISCRIMINATION AGAINST ATLANTA.

That was a rather funny decision of the Georgia Railroad Commission in Atlanta on Friday, if a dispatch sent out correctly states the matter. It was to the effect that the Commission "denied the petition for a reduction of rates on coffee and iron shipments from Georgia ports to Atlanta. The reduction was asked on the ground that Nashville, Tenn., enjoyed a lower rate from the ports than Atlanta. The Commission decided that to attempt to adjust Atlanta rates according to a Nashville basis was equivalent to attempting to regulate Inter-State Commerce."

The funny part of the decision is stated in the last sentence, but we take it, of course, that the real ground for the decision was not that, for the Georgia Commission was not asked to regulate the rate to Nashville but to Atlanta. Even then it couldn't regulate a rate to Atlanta unless the port of shipment and the destination of freight were both in Georgia.

The Inter-State Commerce regulations seems to make the State commissions appear to be almost powerless to apply remedies. It would appear that the Georgia commission could regulate rates from the ports of Savannah and Brunswick to Atlanta, all in the same State, but, of course, it is powerless to regulate a rate from ports outside of Georgia.

It is to be inferred that the Georgia Commission had been asked to regulate rates from some of the ports outside of Georgia, and in that event the Atlantians will have to go to the Inter-State Commerce Commission which is about as powerless as the State Commissions.

Even the important city of Atlanta is a victim of freight discrimination, and in all probability it cannot get the relef it would like.

"How much money should a man give his wife every week?" inquires a woman writer. Oh, well, sis, that depends on whether he just has to supply her needs or whether he has to do that and then come across some more with a little hush money in order to make the arbitration binding.

BEEF FROM ARGENTINA.

It appears curious to note the fear in as large and productive a country as the United States that beef and other meat products from South America or somewhere else will come here and crush out our "infant" beef and meat industry. Nevertheless, the Republican party has indulged that overpowering dread and never fails to give the beef and meat interests protection so high that it saves us from the danger of being overwhelmed by pauper cattle raisers and slaughter houses in the far off country below the equator.

Our timid people seem to appear to look on Argentina as the biggest bugaboo, and the New York Commercial is doing its best to allay their fears. Says the Commercial:

"The Dingley law rates of duty on meats—and they will no doubt stand for some years yet—are quite high enough to make importations of meats impracticable and profitless. On bacon and hams they are 5 cents per pound; on fresh beef, veal, mutton, and pork they are 3 cents a pound; while on prepared or preserved meats of all kinds not specifically mentioned in the act the duty is 25 per cent ad valorem; extract of meat and fluid extract of meat must pay 35 cents per pound and 15 cents per pound, respectively. So in most instances these rates are absolutely prohibitory. The public couldn't afford to pay them. And even the 'meat trust' itself couldn't.

"But there is another reason why importations of meats from Argentina would be unprofitable, even if the duties were to be reduced materially: There are no American ships afloat in which to bring the goods—no regularly established steamship lines of any importance between ports of the United States and those of Argentina under any flag.

"If the American 'meat trust' will influence Congress to give us free meats and will then build a dozen or two fast steamships for the South American trade, we may see meats imported from Argentina—but not till then."

COTTON AND TOBACCO GROWING ON LAST YEAR'S STALKS.

The Pender Chronicle, Burgaw, N. C., mentions the interesting fact that on the farm of Mr. J. P. Wells, near Watha, Pender county, he has growing nicely about 100 hills of cotton sprouting from last year's stalks. The sprouts are in a field now planted in corn but which was in cotton last season. Mr. Wells attributes this unusual growth to the mild Winter, during which the cold was not sufficient to kill the old cotton stalks from which a crop was gathered last Fall. He has fertilized his second growth cotton and is giving it every chance to do its best. The result seems to be promising, for the second growth cotton plants are higher and more vigorous than are the growing plants of this season.

The Chronicle also mentions that on Mr. A. J. Johnson's farm near Warsaw, he has a stalk of tobacco which sprouted from the stem of last year's crop and is growing very luxuriantly. The stalk is near the garden fence, being somewhat protected. The sprouts came out on the stalk about two inches above the ground and are much larger than the tobacco planted out this year. He is saving the stalk and will gather the seed and try them next year.

All of this goes to show how mild is the climate of this region and emphasizes the fact that this part of North Carolina is specially adapted to the production of early vegetables and farm products.

PELLAGRA AND HOOK WORM IN THE SOUTH.

At the annual convention of the North Carolina Medical Society in Asheville the past week there were many able and interesting addresses or papers read before the doctors gathered there from all over the State. Among one of the papers, which attracted unusual attention was one by Dr. E. J. Wood, of Wilmington, who made some startling observations on the widespread existence of pellagra in the South. Another was by Dr. C. W. Stiles, of the United States marine hospital service. Dr. Stiles told the convention of North Carolina physicians that 2,000,000 persons in the South, mainly poor whites, insufficiently nourished, were afflicted with hook worms, which caused laziness and anaemia and an annual loss in labor of $100,000,000. The negro, he said, spreads the parasite, but is immune from its effects. In some rural districts, due to unsanitary living, 50 to 80 per cent. of the population is infected.

HARDLY REASONABLE.

The New Orleans States, referring to the statement that the Hon. William J. Bryan has announced that he is a candidate for the United States Senate from Nebraska, remarks that "it will be accepted by all Democrats as a notification that he has retired from the Presidential field, and that he will not again head the party ticket."

Here, now! When did the States ever know of any man, any person with aspirations, any patriotic politician or any ambitious statesman, to be satisfied with a position when a better one is in sight or within grasp.

Some cultured person in Boston has made the discovery that 85 per cent. of the cuss words in the English language are words of one syllable. Nevertheless, most of them make such hot shot that Senator LaFollette, while jumping on Senator Aldrich's tariff bill was debarred by the rules of decency from handing them out right and left as they would come up in his throat and choke him while under the heat of debate.

Those who eat stuff and wear material and pay the tariff tax on them in proportion to what they eat and wear, are the consumers. The consumers know that under high taxes the cost of living is high and they know how to kick against being plundered, but, to tell you the truth, the Republican victory in the last election indicates that the consumers don't know how to vote.

In Wadesboro a young fellow drew a pistol to shoot a girl because she turned him down. Even if a girl does turn a man's head, blast all his hopes, crush his heart, and break him all up, the law won't regard it as a case of self-defense for a fellow to act rough about it.

A number of Indian chiefs in the West want to go to Washington to see President Taft. The North Carolina Republicans who are still ashy over the President's appointment of Judge Connor can send the Red bucks scalpers tickets for their trip.

In that divorce trial, Mrs. Howard Gould testified that she spent $40,000 a year for gowns. She should have spent part of it for cloaks in order to cloak some of the shady things that have been penetrated by the spot-light of a court inquiry.

It is announced that President Taft has decided "to take a firm stand on the Aldrich tariff bill." Stand, nothing! It would look more like business if a man of his size and proportion were to sit down on it.

The evidence in the Gould divorce suit evinces the fact that she just simply couldn't stand prosperity any more than any ordinary Wilmington man who thinks money is made to blow in.

Communities which won't vote for taxes to keep up good schools are undesirable neighborhoods for new settlers. A county without good roads is a good roosting place for crows.

A few curtain lectures repeated on the Chautauqua circuit would make Senator Tillman's lectures look like the sum total of three ten cent pieces.

President Taft's message on the corporation and income tax propositions apparently put the Senate into a dopey state.

A row in a party is almost equal to a rucus in a family. They are good things to fight shy of.

The Gould divorce trial shows that it would be good policy to keep in with the servants.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—The Gould divorce court again shows that one can never be a heroine to one's servants.—Washington Post.

—Mr. Taft has poured harmony oil on the Senate's troubled waters, and now Senator Bailey threatens to strike a match.—Washington Post.

—Some Boston word sharp calls attention to the fact that 85 per cent. of the English cuss words are words of one syllable. We have often observed this awful deficiency and frequently yearned for a nice collection of Russian and Japanese words to express some grand, stormy emotion called forth by the telephone service.—Houston Post.

—The man who has something to eat to sell is always sure to make good in farming. The Raeford Facts and Figures reports that Mr. B. R. Brock has sold 800 pounds of honey and Rev. R. H. George 400 pounds of honey this Spring. And they had sweetness at home, too. Every farm ought to have honey to eat and to sell. —Raleigh News and Observer.

—It has been left to the managing board of the Mascow, Windau and Rybinsk Railway to turn the gramophone to practical use, for the board has announced its intention to set up a huge gramophone at the Moscow station of the line, so that the arrival and departure of every train can be announced clearly to the traveling public. At the same time the gramaphone will sound the bell thrice, as is usual, before a train starts on its journey. As more than 70 per cent. of the people of European Russia are unable to read or to write, the ordinary time tables are not of the smallest use to them, and the gramaphone referred to has a splendid future before it, if only it can be made to speak clearly and loudly enough.—London Globe.

Newbro's Herpicide
Others Imitate but None Equal

Since the world was new there have been imitators. Great men and remarkable achievements are all imitated to a greater or less extent. An attempt at imitation is always a compliment—a tribute to the greatness of the man or the worthiness of the thing imitated

Herpicide is a Scientific Achievement
The Original Remedy to Kill the Dandruff Germ and Up to Date the Only One That Does it

Others have tried to imitate it, but without success. It stands alone, the peer of all hair preparations. Used as directed, Herpicide removes the dead scarfskin, which is so unsightly and annoying, checks further accumulation by killing the Dandruff Germ, stops falling hair and brings both scalp and hair back to normal health. Unless completely atrophied, the follicles take on new life, manifested by a strong, vigorous growth of hair.

Completely Bald for Eight Years

Pontiac, Illinois.

I was almost completely bald for the last eight years and tried every remedy advertised without benefit. Herpicide immediately removed the itching and feverish sensation. I now have a fine silky growth of hair started which is growing every day. There was no sign of a hair before.

SOUTHERN INDUSTRIES

Activity in Cotton Milling Business. Many New Enterprises of Other Nature—Large Capital Being Interested.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Baltimore, June 17.—Among the hundreds of Southern industrial reports in the Manufacturers' Record this week are evidences of more than usual activity in the cotton manufacturing industry, several extensive plants being announced.

Among the announcements are the following: Samuel F. Patterson, largely interested in two cotton mills at Roanoke Rapids, N. C., will organize the Patterson Mills Co., to build another plant to be equipped with 22,000 spindles, 750 looms, etc., and operated by electricity, the product to be ginghams; this plant will cost about $650,000. The Martinsville Cotton Mill Co., Martinsville, Va., incorporated with $200,000 capital, will install 16,000 spindles, 400 looms, etc. The Beaumont Manufacturing Co., Spartanburg, S. C., will add 16,000 spindles, 350 looms, etc., in a 79x295-foot building, which will be erected. The Puritan Cordage Mills, Louisville, Ky., has ordered $60,000 worth of machinery for a complete cordage manufacturing plant operated by electricity. The Efird Manufacturing Co., Albemarle, N. C., will double its present plant of 15,000 ring spindles, requiring an investment of probably $300,000. The Wiscasset Mills Co., Albemarle, N. C., will add 25,000 spindles, necessitating the investment of probably $500,000. The Hartford Hosiery Mills, Nashville, Tenn., was incorporated with a capital stock of $100,000. The Elizabeth Hosiery Co., Burlington, N. C., will incorporate with $25,000 capital and has ordered knitting machines for operation by electricity. The Home Cotton Mills, Elberton, Ga., was incorporated with $100,000 capital. The Fairmont Manufacturing Co., Fairmont, S. C., will add 4,000 spindles and install 300 looms to replace old looms. The Huss Manufacturing Co., Bessemer City, N. C., will build a mill to spin yarns for its present weaving mills. The Peck Manufacturing Co., Warrenton, N. C., was incorporated with a capital stock of $125,000.

The Rock Castle Lumber Co., Meeks, Ky., was incorporated with $200,000 capital to build a mill for cutting the timber on 10,000 acres of land. The Georgia Pulp Mill & Manufacturing Co., Macon, Ga., was organized with $50,000 capital to build a plant for grinding okra stalks into pulp for paper manufacture. The Gold Hill Telephone Co., Gold Hill, N. C., was incorporated with $50,000 capital. The R. O. Campbell Coal Co., Atlanta, Ga., was incorporated with $200,000 capital. The Wichita Falls Compress Co., Wichita Falls, Tex., was incorporated with $30,000 capital. The Lone Star Gas Co., Fort Worth, Tex., was incorporated with $2,500,000 capital to lay pipe lines for supplying natural gas. The Steel Fireproofing Co., Glenova, W. Va., was incorporated with $200,000 capital to build plant for manufacturing steel fire-proofing and other building material. PROF. R. H. WRIGHT.

New Head of Eastern Carolina Training School at Greenville, N. C.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Oak Ridge, N. C., June 15.—The friends of Prof. R. H. Wright at this place (and they number the whole population) not only congratulate him upon his election to the presidency of the Eastern Training School, but they congratualte the Eastern Training School upon securing the services of Prof. Wright. Prof. Wright was prepared for college at Oak Ridge Institute, graduating with the class of 1893, and after he graduated at the University he accepted a position with this Institution having charge of the department of History in the Baltimore City College. After two years he was made principal of the Eastern Baltimore Girls' College. No one who knows Prof. Wright has any doubt about his scholarship experience, or capacity to make a fine executive officer for the Eastern Training School. He is a splendid scholar, a thorough gentleman and a painstaking and popular teacher and a fine executive officer. The State is fortunate in his prospective return to the educational work of such importance in its borders.

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION CURE.

Rydale's Liver Tablets will positively cure chronic constipation. They are made from a prescription of a specialist, who used this formula in his practice for many years with uniform results and unvaried success. The only difference in the effect on all cases being, some require a longer time to effect a cure than others. Rydale's Liver tablets are put up in convenient boxes holding 50 tablets, Price 25c. Sold and guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy.

Some Handicaps.

"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter," faltered the young man.

"You do, eh?" exclaimed the fond parent. "Well, I have been rather expecting this, and, to be thoroughly orthodox, I shall put a few questions to you. Do you drink?"

"No, sir. I abhor liquor."

"You do, eh? Smoke?"

"I never use tobacco in any form."

"Well, I didn't suppose you ate it. Do you frequent the race tracks?"

"I never saw a horse race in my life, sir."

"Um-m-m! Play cards for money?"

"Emphatically no, sir."

"Well, young man, I must say you are heavily handicapped. My daughter is a thorough society girl, and I can't for the life of me see what she is going to do with you. However, it's her funeral, and if she wants to undertake the job—why, God bless you both!"—Washington Post.

Woman's Work.

After dinner the other evening Mr. and Mrs. Brown started to speak of their respective duties, and soon an argument as to whether the husband or the wife had the hardest work to perform was in full swing. First Brown warbled and then wifey sang.

"A wife," argued the good lady, "has to cook, wash dishes, clothe the kids, scrub the floors, sweep the house, make the beds, build the fires, carry up coal, nail slats on the back fence, dig"—

"Is that all?" sarcastically interrupted Mr. Brown.

"No," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. Brown. "In addition to those duties every wife has to keep her husband from making a fool of himself."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Anchored Him.

"I was at a reception with a certain young lady the other night," said a man who always tells the truth, "and her father was there too. He doesn't think much of me, and he followed us about from room to room—wouldn't let us get out of his sight for a minute. Well, I knew the old man was an awful tight wad, so I thought up a scheme. I carelessly dropped a half dollar on the floor while he was looking. He moved over and put his foot on it and never stirred until the party broke up. Meanwhile daughter and I beat it and enjoyed ourselves."—Cleveland Leader.

Saving Cuff Addresses.

Folded up with the laundry bill was another slip of paper, on which were several lines of fine writing.

"What is this?" asked the new customer.

"Those are the addresses we copied off your cuffs," said the clerk. "We always make a record of the addresses we find on cuffs and return them with the laundry, so if our customers have not put them down any place else they won't be lost."—New York Press.

When There Was More of It.

An old chap with hardly a hair on his head snapped at the young barber on the completion of a hair cut:

"You are not the thorough workman your father was, my boy. He used to take a good half hour to cut my hair."

A CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

That is what a sufferer from dyspepsia writes about Rydale's Stomach Tablets: "I have taken a box of your stomach tablets. They have done me more good than anything I have ever taken for Dyspepsia. I have had it nearly all my life. I feel so thankful I have found something that will help me for only those who have this disease know what it is."
Miss Nettie Springs, Tarlorstown, Va.

Rydale's Stomach Tablets will relieve at once all forms of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and soon effect a permanent cure of the most severe and long standing cases. Sold and guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy.

IN SOCIETY

The bride was preceded by her maid of honor, Miss Bettie L. Nash, of Charlotte, who was dressed in a lovely pale green messaline gown, and carried pink carnations and ferns; the bride was given away by her father, and was attired in a handsome dress of duchess satin trimmed with rose point lace, "en traine." An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's father, after which the couple took the train for a short trip to Northern points. Many valuable and beautiful presents were received, and attested the popularity of the young couple. Miss Curtis is the granddaughter of the late Rev. M. A. Curtis, of Hillsboro, and great-granddaughter of the late Chief Justice Nash. The groom is a most promising young minister, and a son of Mr. Oswald Alexander, of Mecklenburg.

• • •

Miss Kate Horner arrived Wednesday to be the guest of Miss Holladay, on Masonboro Sound.

• • •

Miss Louise Wadsworth is the attractive guest of Miss Margaret Bridgers on the Beach.

• • •

Friends of Mr. Robert Bridgers are glad to see him in Wilmington again, after spending the past year at the University.

• • •

Messrs. Fairfax Crow and Will Crow, of Houston, Tex., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Crow, on Dock street.

• • •

Mr. Will Johnson, of Asheville, accompanied by his nephew, Master Robert Johnson, arrived yesterday to spend a couple of weeks.

• • •

Miss Ruby E. Holladay, of Dillon, S. C., arrived during the past week and is visiting Mrs. L. H. Skinner, on South Front street for a week or ten days.

• • •

Miss Della May Farmer and Miss Gertrude Gorham, of Wilson, N. C., will arrive Tuesday to be the house guests of Miss Ruth Farmer, No. 11 North Eighth street, where they will remain for a week or ten days.

• • •

Mr. Wiley Jones, of Columbia, S. C., who is prominently connected here, was a guest at the Tarrymoore Hotel here during the Bankers' Convention, and received the cordial welcome of many friends and relatives during his visit.

• • •

Miss Sophie Jenkins, of Goldsboro, en route to a house-party at the Isle of Palms, stopped over in Wilmington for today, as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. I. T. St.Amand. Miss Jenkins is accompanied to Wilmington by her brother, Mr. Wm. E. Jenkins, Jr.

• • •

The host of friends of Miss Lucile Mimnaugh, of Columbia, S. C., who was one of the most popular visitors at Wrightsville Beach last season, will be delighted to learn that she expects to return to Wrightsville early in the approaching week, to be a guest at the Seashore Hotel.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. John Victor Grainger and daughter, little Miss Fannie Grainger, leave tonight for New York, whence they will sail for Europe, to be absent several months. Their hosts of friends here wish them "bon voyage" and will anticipate their return with much pleasure.

• • •

Miss Helen Williams, who has been attending "Fassifern," Miss Shipp's School for Young Ladies, at Lincolnton, during the past scholastic year, returned home Friday. Miss Williams has been the guest of Miss Wetmore, in Greensboro, and has also visited Miss Elizabeth Johnson, of Raleigh, since the close of the school session at Fassifern.

• • •

Miss Gladys Flemming, of Spartanburg, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Simpson, of Spartanburg, were among the guests at the Seashore Hotel during the past week. It will be of interest to their friends here to know that the charms of Wrightsville Beach have sufficiently appealed to them to induce a change of their plans for the Summer, and Miss Flemming and Mr. and Mrs. Simpson will later return to the beach as members of a large house-party to be given by them.

• • •

Prominent among the recent arrivals at the Seashore are, Miss Sarah Bell, Miss Cora Wynn, Miss Katharine DuBose and Mr. James DuBose, of Atlanta, and Miss Ruth Dickinson, of New York, who has been the guest of Miss Dickinson, in Atlanta. These young ladies and gentlemen form a pleasant addition to the party arriving from Atlanta last week at the Seashore Hotel, and are enjoying to the fullest extent their stay on Wrightsville.

• • •

Miss Margaret Kingsbury entertained delightfully on Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Sophie Taylor, of Oxford, the affair being in the nature of a porch party. Those invited were Misses Jennie Murchison, Fannie Murchison, Atha Hicks, Alice Reston Smith, Isabel Smallbones, Christine Stevenson, Florence Kidder, Helen Strange, Julia Parsley, Amoret Lord, Amoret Price, Agnes McQueen, Bessie Lodor, Isabel Williams, Helen Pleasants, Duralde Larkins, Mrs. Emmet Crow, Charlotte Pleasants, Marguerite Holladay, Louise Smallbones, Alice Davis, Julia Worth, Kate Myers, Cynthia Rountree, Blanche Morton, Carrie Sale Hardwick, Maria Maffitt, Daisy Burbank, Margaret Quince, Marguerite Walker, Jennie Hardin, Virginia Bailey, Alice LeGrand, Nannie Watters, Lucile Kingsbury, Margaret Nash, Theo Cantwell, Nellie Durham, and Sue Brent Prince, the last two being absent from the city and therefore not present.

• • •

The Yonkers, N. Y., Statesman of Thursday has the following of interest to many friends in this city: "Miss Henrietta Harvey Willis, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Willis, of 78 Buena Vista avenue, was quietly married in St. Andrew's Memorial Episcopal Church, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to Horace David Springer, of Wilmington, N. C. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles A. Ashmead, the assistant rector, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. James A. Springer, of Wilmington, parents of the bridegroom. The bride was given away by her sister, Miss Beatrice A. Willis, who acted as bridesmaid. J. Henry Callister, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was best man. The bride was attired in a handsome traveling gown of imported, hand-embroidered, natural color pongee, and wore a Leghorn hat, trimmed with American beauty roses. Her only ornament was a diamond brooch, a gift from the bridegoom. The bridesmaid wore ashes-of-roses silk, trimmed with old Irish lace, and a lingerie hat to match. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents. After their wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Springer will make their home in Wilmington, where the bridegroom is associated with his father in the coal business."

• • •

The Seashore Hotel has been rather a "mecca" for the newly married since its opening on June 1st, there having been four brides and grooms registered there during the opening week, while during the past wek there have been eight young couples as guests of this popular hostelry. The accommodations at the beach have been taxed to their utmost capacity recently, because of the large influx of guests from South Carolina, about two hundred having arrived Wednesday night to attend the convention of the Bankers Association. Lumina has nightly been the scene of revelry and pleasure, and the ten piece orchestra has weakened the hearts and made nimble dancers of many a would-be spectator. The ball room has been crowded each night with hundreds of dancers, and especially on Thursday night, when the elaborate "Bankers' Dance" was given complimentary to the visitors. An enormous horse-shoe was prominently displayed in the ball room, artistically decorated with artificial flowers designed by Mrs. Booker, while the thirty port holes of the biulding were covered with transparencies in the nature of money-bags. Large dollar marks distributed through the building added to the attractive appearance of the pavilion, while large gold bugs and large green bull-frogs representing respectively the standard currency and the familiar (?) "greenback", completed the novel decorations. Attractive souvenirs in the shape of green pouches, lined with red, drawn together with a silken cord, were distributed to the guests, all of whom, in addition to some several hundred beach residents and numbers of Wilmingtonians, were present to participate in the delightful occasion.

• • •

The Moible, Ala., Register says: "Love made the hours yesterday not only golden in happiness but in color, for there were no clouds to mar the beauty of the noon-day sun, when at high noon the little god of love tied another love-knot and united the destinies of Miss Frances Bonneau and Mr. George Volney Harrell, of Wilmington, N. C. The ceremony, which was witnessed only by the relatives and a few most intimate friends, was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richebourg Gaillard on Dauphin Way, the parlor forming a most fitting sanctuary with the grouping of handsome palms and the clusters of golden-eyed daisies which had caught some of the sunlight in their centres. Rev. W. J. E. Cox spoke the solemn words of the marriage ceremony, the bride being given away by her only brother, Mr. George Rutledge Bonneau, while the groom was attended by his best man, Mr. Oscar Morris, of Wilmington, N. C. Miss Bonneau, who is a pretty and vivacious brunette, wore to best advantage a stylish green coat suit, with a green silk waist. Her face was framed with a becoming green hat trimmed with green foliage and velvet ribbon, and she carried a bouquet of daisies and ferns, her only ornament being a necklace of pearls and amethysts, the gift of the groom. Following the ceremony and prior to the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Harrell, toasts were drunk to the young couple with refreshing punch served from an attractive bowl in the hall by Miss Caroline Hand of Purvis, Miss. The bride and groom left on the 1:33 train for Asheville, N. C., where they will enjoy a visit before going to Wilmington, N. C., where they will make their future home with the groom's mother, and where a warm welcome awaits them, as Mr. Harrell, who is the manager of the firm of M. W. Divine & Co., is popular both in the social and business world. Mrs. Harrell, who is the last of the three pretty daughters of Mrs. O. Bonneau to marry, has many friends in Mobile who regret that she will make her home in a distant clime. Among the numerous and costly presents received were two handsome cases of silver."

THE STATE NORMAL.

Announcement by President Foust for the Coming Year.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the State Normal and Industrial College which appears in this issue. Every year shows a steady growth in this institution devoted to the higher education of the women of North Carolina. During the past year the McIver Memorial Building was erected and used for class purposes. This addition to the material equipment of the college greatly increased the efficiency of the work.

The college last year had a total enrollment of 979 students. Eighty-eight of the 98 counties of the State had representatives in the student body. Nine-tenths of all the graduates of this institution have taught or are now teaching in the schools of North Carolina.

The dormitories are furnished by the State and board is provided at actual cost. Two hundred appointments to the dormitories, apportioned among the several counties according to school population, will be awarded to applicants about the middle of July. Students who wish to attend this institution next year should make application as early as possible, as the capacity of the dormitories is limited.

The concerts at Lumina today will be worth hearing. The night concert is especially fine. **

It was our pleasure to visit a home in Lumberton one evening this week where there is to be seen the greatest variety of flowers and plants we have seen at any residence. We counted over 80 pots and boxes, all containing different speciments of plants. The gentleman owning the home told us he had as high as 111 different kinds of plants, but had lost enough to bring the number down to 90.

The motion picture show which resumed operations Monday after two weeks' vacation, is being attended by large crowds and the pictures are of the very best. Several of our people who have recently visited picture shows in Wilmington, Charlotte and Raleigh, declare the service here far superior to anything seen elsewhere.

Some of the largest country hams ever brought to this market have been brought within the past few days. The largest weighed 48 pounds. One lot of eight or ten in a grocery store averaged 30 pounds. Another argument in favor of the stock law.

The shipping of lumber over the Raleigh & Charleston seems to be quite an item as a close observer states that the road delivers to the Seaboard an average of at least 50 cars per week. One Seaboard freight took away 17 cars last Saturday. In a short time another large mill will be in operation on this line.

If our people did not know better they would think Lumberton had many dope fiends, especially on Sundays when the drug stores are closed. Let a drug clerks start to breakfast and he is lucky if he does not run into an epidemic of headaches or something of the kind, caused, of course, from having to work too late Saturday night and sleeping too late Sunday morning.

We have received a copy of an industrial edition of the Walde News-Leader, published at Walde, Texas, which is one of the neatest and best gotten up publications of its kind we have seen. Among the business men of the town we find B. L. Crump, president of the Southwestern Supply Co. Mr. Crump was raised in this section and 30 years ago was a compositor in the Robesonian office, but left here and went to Texas over 20 years ago. It is reported that a horse was tied to one of the poles and was knocked down, but not killed.——Among the passengers arriving on the early train this morning was a colored woman and small boy who came from Yorkville, N. C. Soon after the departure of the train the husband of the woman arrived, having run all the way from Yorkville, ten miles. He said his wife had run away from him taking the child with her and he wanted the child but the wife could go. The mother said she just brought the child to the doctor but the father said it was not sick and he wanted him back.

Mill-End Sale

The mightiest money-saving event on our store calendar. Thousands of dollars worth of factory remnants and odds and ends to be distributed at shattered prices.

An event of almost limitless saving possibilities and bargain benefit. An all-eclipsing cost-ignoring sacrifice of fresh and reliable merchandise. A carnage of prices and carnival of values.

This Widely Famous Sale Begins Monday, June 21st and Continues Six Days

To explain—if explanation be necessary—the "why" of the Mill End Sale. It may be termed the Broom of the Manufacturer. Periodically he sweeps clean his store room of vast accumulations of remnants, of short lots, of surpluses and odds and ends. The live merchant catches his share of these sweepings and pays practically his own price for them. In turn, he distributes them at prices lower than their actual cost to manufacture.

We share with you the loss the manufacturer gladly bears to rid his stocks of goods which MUST BE MOVED.

There's the cause of the Mill End Sale. The results are very incompletely told in the almost unbelievable sale values printed on this page. They are but as a drop in the bucket. Every department of the Store has its full share of them. There are thousands of them—quite beyond description—but all as wonderful as those listed here.

Death of Little Son.

Their many friends in this section of the State and elsewhere in North Carolina will deeply sympathize with ex-Mayor and Mrs. T. J. Murphy, of Greensboro, in the death of their nine-months-old son, Hamilton L. Murphy, which occurred at the Marion Seaside Home, Wrightsville Beach, yesterday morning of general toxaemia. The little fellow became ill several days ago at Tomahawk, where Mrs. Murphy was visiting, and was carried to Wrightsville Tuesday. At first, signs of improvement were noted, but on Thursday a change for the worse took place. This is the third child Mr. and Mrs. Murphy have lost from that cause in the past few years. Accompanied by the bereaved parents the body of the little one was taken on the 7 o'clock train last evening for Greensboro, where the interment will take place.

OPPOSED TO AN INCREASE

Chamber of Commerce Will Fight Attempt of Bell Telephone Company to Raise Rates of Residence Telephones.

The proposition of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company to raise the rates on residence telephones in this city will be vigorously opposed by the Chamber of Commerce and the fight will be before the Corporation Commission at Raleigh Friday, June 25th, which was last week designated as the time for the hearing of the matter.

The telephone company last Wednesday made application to the Corporation Commission to approve an advance in the rates for residence telephone service in Wilmington and Asheville that would bring the rates up to the schedule in force in Charlotte, Raleigh and other cities of the State. The Commission named the date for the hearing and has since been notified by Mr. J. A. Taylor, president of the Chamber of Commerce here that any advance in the rates would be fought by the organization of which he is the head. The Chamber of Commerce has the support and sympathy of the entire citizenship in its fight for a continuance of the present rates. Mr. Taylor has also notified the local manager, Mr. R. L. Boyd, and the district manager, Mr. M. B. Speir, of Charlotte, that the Chamber of Commerce would be represented at the hearing.

The representatives of the Chamber of Commerce will go to Raleigh with a mass of data which they hope will prove to the satisfaction of the members of the Commission that no advance in rates should be made in Wilmington at this time. The situation here some years ago, when the Bell people bought out the competing system, and the negotiations at that time between the Chamber of Commerce, as the representative of the people, and the Bell people, will be brought to the attention of the Commission. The people submitted to a raise of 50 per cent. on business and 33 1-3 per cent. on residence phones and the company entered into a four-year contract with the people upon that basis. The Chamber of Commerce never agreed that the rates put in force at that time should be terminated with the expiration of the four years. The Chamber will cite the Commission to the fact that when this arrangement was made the number of telephones in use in the city was very small, but now there are a large number being used and many new telephones are being put in. It is not the policy of the telephone company, however, to make reductions with the increased number of telephones, but rather ask for and in some cases demand and get more rental.

The outcome of the fight will be watched with interest by the people of Wilmington and many in other towns of the State.

An Attractive Show Window.

The popular shore firm of Hewlett & Price, 109 Market street, yesterday afternoon fitted up an original and attractive show window which invited and held the attention of hundreds of pedestrians during the afternoon and evening. It represents a beach scene and in the window is displayed advantageously barefoot cansals, bathing slippers and white and tan oxfords. The canvas background represents the ocean and on the layer of sand in the bottom of the window is seen crawling about here and there a number of sand crabs, while in the centre is a large wax doll with beautiful golden hair, dressed in a bathing suit and holding some of the goods handled by the firm. The idea originated in the fertile mind of Mr. Geo. T. Hewlett.

RETURN FROM BIG MEETING

Local Delegates Back From Mount Olive, Where They Attended Annual Session of Woman's Missionary Union.

The delegates to the 21st annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Wilmington Presbytery, held at Mount Olive Thursday and Friday, have returned to the city and report an enthusiastic and interesting gathering, which was presided over by the president, Mrs. Jackson Johnson, of Brunswick county, in her usual graceful manner.

Among those who attended from the local union were: Mrs. Jackson Johnson, Mrs. B. F. Hall, Mrs. W. M. Cumming, Mrs. W. H. Chadbourn, Mrs. J. T. Barden, Mrs. W. T. Bannerman, Mrs. W. H. Sprunt, and Misses Florence Bonitz, Mary Cumming and Nell Bowden.

There were 32 delegates enrolled and the reports of the year's work were of a very encouraging nature. Several interesting papers were read and there were discussions on both home and foreign mission work. The needs and conditions of the home and foreign fields and the best methods and plans of work were ably presented by some of the gifted women of the Union. Miss Mattie Tate, a missionary to Korea, was present. She exhibited many curios from that quaint land and talked interestingly of the work in Korea. Interesting and instructive addresses were delivered by Rev. H. Maxcy Smith, a missionary to China; Rev. M. McG. Shields, Synodical agent of Home Missions in North Carolina, and Rev. W. M. Sykes, of Burgaw. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Peter McIntire and Rev. W. S. Winecoff.

The next meeting will be held in Chadbourn in June of next year, at which time the biennial election of officers will take place. The Day of Prayer will be observed in October at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, this city.

The delegates speak in the highest terms of the unbounded hospitality of the Mount Olive people, many of whom were regular attendants upon the sessions of the Union.

MARRIAGE AT FAIRMONT.

Miss Ida Galloway and Mr. Eliott Chambers Contracting Parties.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Fairmont, N. C., June 19.—The Methodist church of this city was never more beautiful than on Wednesday, the 16th, at high noon, when it was the scene of the wedding of Miss Ida Galloway, of this place, and Mr. Eliott Jerome Chambers, of Asheville, N. C. Miss Galloway is the daughter of Mr. Daniel W. Galloway, formerly of Goldsboro, one of the best known families in North Carolina and is a granddaughter of the late Hon. James H. Abell, of Smithfield, Johnson county. Mr. Chambers is a very popular and successful tobacconist of Asheville.

The church was profusely and artistically decorated with palms and ferns, there being a series of floral arches under which the bridal party passed. The chancel was massed with woodland fern, the color scheme being green and white. Before the assembling of the bridal party Miss Vera Blue, of Aberdeen, delighted the waiting audience with the rendition of "Because," and as the last notes died away Miss Sue McMurray began the beautiful wedding march from Lohengrin and to its strains the bride and groom were preceded by their chosen attendants in the following order: First, the flower girls, little Misses Katherine Galloway and Emily Bissette, sister and cousin of the bride; the ushers, Messrs. P. R. Floyd, Billie Kyle, Thomas Graham and Marvin Floyd; Dr. E. O. Chambers, of Asheville, and Miss Ida E. Winstead, bridesmaid, then entered the maid of honor, Miss Ione Abell, of Smithfield, cousin of the bride, followed by little Miss Francis Carter, carrying the ring in a calla lily. Then came the groom accompanied by his best man and brother, Mr. V. K. Chambers, of Asheville. Down the opposite aisle came the bride leaning on the arm of her father and met the groom at the chancel. To the strains of "Hearts and Flowers," the bride's pastor, Rev. C. W. Smith performed the ceremony very impressively. As the bridal party left the church the ever popular wedding march, Mendelssohn's, was rendered.

The bride was particularly pretty gowned in a white satin foulard robe, empire style, trimmed in embroidered lace and yoke en train, her full tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was attractively gowned in white satin messaline and carried white carnations. The presents were handsome and profuse, showing the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed S. Abell, of Smithfield; Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Abell, of Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Geo. N. Bissette, Nashville, N. C.; Mrs. T. H. Turner, of Raleigh; Misses Adele Galloway, of Goldsboro; Vera Blue, of Aberdeen; Sallie Graham, of Rowland; Ida E. Winstead, of Roxboro; Jane Abell, of Smithfield; Susan McMurray, South Carolina; Messrs. V. K. Chambers, of Asheville; Thos. Graham, of Rowland, and Dr. E. O. Chambers, of Asheville.

The bride and groom left on the afternoon train for Asheville and other points for an extended trip of a month.

After disposing of routine business including the election of one new member, and the appointment of the Laurel Wreath Committee composed of Mrs. Jos. D. Smith, Mrs. Louis H. Skinner and Miss Elise Emerson, the Chapter considered at some length the entertainment of the State convention here in October, preparations for which are already under way. The following delegates were named to represent Cape Fear Chapter: Miss Anita DeRosset, Miss Hettie James, Mrs. Junius Davis, Mrs. M. S. Willard, Mrs. Andrew J. Howell, Miss Julia Gore, Mrs. R. W. Hicks and Mrs. Chas. Myers; alternates, Mrs. W. M. Parsley, Mrs. Cuthbert Martin, Mrs. Gabriel Holmes, Mrs. Jas. F. Woolvin, Mrs. J. Hicks Bunting, Mrs. W. M. Creasy, Mrs. Jennie DeRosset and Mrs. R. C. Cantwell.

The Daughters hope to enlist the encouragement and co-operation of the business men of the city in the entertainment to the hundreds of guests who are expected, as in other cities the commercial bodies have assisted the local chapters handsomely. The president appointed the following committees yesterday afternoon:

Securing Hall—Mrs. M. S. Willard, Mrs. J. C. Munds.

Badges, Programme, Etc.—Mrs. John C. James, Mrs. Gabriel Holmes, Mrs. J. T. James and Miss Mary Calder.

GEORGIA RAILROAD STRIKE.

Chancellor Barrow to be Third Member of Arbitrators.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, June 19.—In view of the declination of Bishop Candler, of Georgia, to act as arbitrator in the strike of the Georgia Railroad firemen the arbitrators today agreed upon David C. Barrow, chancellor of the University of Georgia, as the third arbitrator.

The time for the appointment of the third arbitrator expired last night at mid-night. The appointment of Bishop Candler by the arbitrators was declined. By the strict construction of the law the appointment of the third arbitrator reverted to the board of mediation consisting of Chairman Martin A. Knapp, of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and Dr. Charles P. Neill, Commissioner of Labor. However, at a conference of the arbitrators today, Hon. Hilary A. Herbert and Representative Hardwick, of Georgia, it was decided to tender the appointment to Professor Barrow.

This was agreed to by the board of mediation. Assurances had been received that Professor Barrow would accept the appointment. It is likely that the first full session of the board of arbitration will be held in Atlanta the early part of next week. Under the law the arbitration of the controversy must be concluded within 30 days from the date of the appointment of the third arbitrator.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Philadelphia, June 19.—Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould, whose suit for a separation from her husband, Howard Gould, is on trial in New York, is a guest at the hotel Walton in this city tonight.

Accompanied by one of her attorneys, Mrs. Gould came to this city this afternoon for the purpose of obtaining evidence to refute the testimony given yesterday in New York by former women employes of a hotel. Mrs. Gould could not be seen but her attorney said the visit here had been successful. Mrs. Gould probably will leave for New York tomorrow.

It is learned that at is next meeting the board of directors of the Florida East Coast Railway will elect as one of its members George W. Perkins, of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.

CALHOUN'S FATE WITH JURY

President of the United Railroads. Tried For Bribery.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

San Francisco, June 19.—The case of Patrick Calhoun, an issue that has divided the people of San Francisco during the last two years, was submitted today to the jury that tried the President of the United Railroads upon an indictment for bribery. Up to 6 o'clock tonight when the twelve men had been given over six hours for their deliberation no verdict had been returned, and Judge William P. Lawler ordered a recess of three hours.

With the court's order for temporary adjournment there disappeared the last hope of an early agreement.

Once during the late afternoon when the jury had been out ovr four hours, there was a sudden summons for Judge Lawler and it was announced that the jury was returning. Mr. Calhoun and his attorneys who had been outside the building returned to their accustomed places just as Judge Lawler, resuming his seat upon the bench, announced that the jurors had requested to hear the testimony of one of the few witnesses whose testimony involved direct mention of the defendant.

WATER METERS.

Wilmington's water department is practically on what is known as a meter basis. About two-thirds of the services in use are now metered and it is probable that meters will be installed eventually upon all services. It is found that the average charge to the consumer is lower in those places using meters than where a charge is made for each opening of fixture. At the same time waste is prevented, better pressure maintained, and the life of pumping station machinery much increased. Along this line the following from The Baltimore Sun is of local interest:

"The committee on public improvements of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, of which Mr. Frank N. Hoen is chairman, will shortly take up the question of Baltimore having a self-sustaining Water Department. Secretary Thomas G. Boggs for several days has been compiling data concerning other cities where the water departments are self-sustaining. In speaking of the question yesterday Mr. Boggs said:

"'One of the desirable things to be sought in our municipal affairs is a self-sustaining Water Department. There is no doubt that there are a number of cities which secure sufficient revenue topay for the expenses of operation of their water plants. Baltimore's deficit may be occasioned by too low a rate, but it appears more than likely due to the method of assessment of rental. Surely a front-foot charge is not the proper basis. This plan does not show the amount of water consumed. An occupant of one lot of 20 feet may use much more water than his neighbor having the same amount of front feet. There is no doubt but the use of meters is the only true way of making charges for water. There may also be a test-meter charge, because every person cannot afford a meter or a charge in accordance to faucets, number of persons, vehicles and horses on the premises. The meter is found to be cheaper for small consumers and the only fair method for large users of water.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS

Able Address Delivered by Col. F. H. Fries, of Winston-Salem at Recent Convention at Wrightsville Beach.

Mr. President, Ladies, and Gentlemen of the South Carolina Bankers Association:

It seems particularly appropriate that North Carolina should throw wide her doors to the bankers from her sister State of South Carolina, and to welcome within her borders those who have been so closely allied to her by the bonds of sympathy and mutual interest since the earliest days of our National history. It is not too much to pledge to the bankers present our heartiest interest and best wishes for the success of this meeting and to you and the institutions you represent great prosperity in the time that stretches ahead, in such glowing prospects, for many years to come.

It is very gratifying and I appreciate greatly the fact, that of the many able sons of the Old North State, you should have chosen me to address this Association at this time, and that you should have named a subject that is now so prominently before the people as, "Postal Savings Banks."

It would seem useless and unnecessary to ask or attempt to answer in this company, the question, What is a Postal Savings Bank? were it not that the very consideration of what it it, lays before us directly the very points of most interest in the discussion of the matter.

What then is the Postal Savings Bank and what are the reasons for its adoption in this country?

It is a measure that is being considered by Congress but not yet enacted into a law, by which it is proposed that the Federal Government, through the machinery of the Postoffice Department, shall receive at all money order offices and during all hours such offices are open, money on deposit, for which the depositor receives a book, stating the amount deposited, upon which the United States is to pay interest quarterly and the principal sum on demand. It is quite clear that by the adoption of this measure the government enters into the banking business, in competition with the banks that are now in existence or that may be started hereafter. This fact makes the consideration of the question most interesting to all of us, especially to the smaller banks located in rural or thinly settled sections.

The measure gains some force from the fact, that England established her Postoffice Savings Bank as early as 1861, and other European nations have since adopted the idea. The force of this however is broken when it is known, that England had at that time no Savings Banks, or any thing corresponding to the Savings Funds of our State Banks or Trust Companies, where the people could deposit their savings in small amounts and upon which they could draw interest. The Bank of England, and the Commercial banks, although they had many branches, were simply banks of issue and discount and designed for commercial business; the need for some place where small savings could be safely and profitably deposited was felt to be a necessity, and the Postoffice Savings Bank of England was established.

The same might be said of the other countries that have since adopted the plan.

The conditions that called forth these banks in foreign countries do not exist in this country. As stated they had no place for savings, we have many; they had no banks of this nature, we have an ample supply, for in addition to the Savings Banks proper that are designed for this purpose, 30 per cent. of the National Banks are now taking Savings Deposits and practically all of the State Banks and Trust Companies have savings departments where interest is paid on deposits and on any amount however small, while certificates of deposit are obtainable by any person who may want them. To these facilities might be added the building and loan associations, the various forms of installment insurance with paid up value at the end of a fixed period and endowment insurance proper, all of which offer to the small wage earner better facilities for small savings and safe investment with fair rate of interest than is obtainable in the Postal Savings Banks of other countries.

This is proven conclusively by the report of the Comptroller of the Currency for 1907, which shows that the savings deposits of the United States amount to $3,690,078,945, while the savings deposits of the rest of the world are $8,416,531,577; in other words the savings deposits of this country now amount to nearly half as much as the combined savings deposits of all other countries, including Europe, Asia, Africa, Oceanica and North America. It shows in addition that the average deposit in the United States is $429.64 compared with $96.50 in foreign countries, and that the average deposit per capita in the United States is $42.87 against $10.44 in foreign countries; including England and Canada where the deposits are $23.00 and $11.14 per capita, respectively.

Then where is the necessity for the government to establish postal savings banks, and why should it enter the business of banking, in direct opposition to its past successful policy of regulating, rather than conducting business enterprises, especially when the conduct of this banking business would add materially to the expenses of the government instead of diminishing them?

The claim made by the advocates of the measure, that the postal savings bank is needed to cultivate the habit of saving, does not appear to be borne out by these statistics, on the contrary the habit seems to be already fixed and growing more rapidly here than elsewhere. Again referring to the report of the Comptroller we find that the increase in the number of savings banks was 40 per cent. from 1887 to 1897, 55 per cent. from 1897 to 1907 and the ratio in the last year has been 7.2 per cent. or for a like period of ten years 72 per cent. The increase in savings deposits in this country in 1906-1907 was about 7 per cent., while the increase in all other countries was 2.51 per cent., or only one-half as much as in the United States,

Then too the deposit per capita in the United States increased 4.23 per cent. while the per capita increase in all other countries was 3.51 per cent. in Europe 3.80 per cent and in the United Kingdom of Great Britain 3.71 per cent. From this it appears that the per capita increase in savings deposits for the same year has been in the Kingdom of Great Britain 3.71 per cent. in European countries 3.80 per cent. in all foreign countries 3.51 per cent. and in the United States 4.23 per cent., thus showing the United States to be 20 per cent. higher than the per capita savings of all the savings bank in Europe.

Then what becomes of the claim that vast sums are sent abroad each year by foreigners laboring and trading in this country, that would remain if a government savings bank existed here? The postoffice department may show that much money is transferred to other countries, but no account is taken of the fact that most of these remittances, go from the bread winners, that have come to this country on account of higher wages, to the dependent ones in the old homes, and no credit is given for the amounts that return to this country with returning immigrants who are thus enabled to come. If it were true that these foreigners exported their savings in order to deposit them in the postal savings banks of their own countries, their patriotism and partiality should manifest itself in a decided increase in these deposits in their home lands. What are the facts? Referring again to the report of the Comptroller of the Currency for 1907, we see that the savings banks of those European countries from which most of our foreign citizens come, showed practically no increase in their average deposits in 1906-1907, and that the savings banks of all European countries while showing a small increase, was over 20 per cent. per capita less than the savings deposits of this country in the same time.

These facts do not seem to bear out the idea nor the contention, that vast sums are being annually sent to Europe for deposit in the government savings banks of the old countries.

The savings bank bills provide for the deposit of a limited sum at any one time, $200, and an aggregate amount of $1,000 to any one person, which deposit is exempt from taxation and all process of law. The claim is made for this measure, that the 2 per cent. rate allowed by the government will not draw money from the banks paying 3 1-2 and 4 per cent on deposits, and yet if you think for a minute you will see that by making these deposits non-taxable, the rate is materially raised according to the rate of taxation ruling in each locality, in some cities reaching 1 1-2 per cent. to 2 per cent. In the latter case the depositor could deposit in the postal savings bank at the same or practically the same net income, have the deposit on call or demand, and it would be fully guaranteed by the United States government, for the government obligates itself to pay the amount deposited on demand. Those present can imagine how rapidly these deposits might change, but I do not believe they could imagine the demoralization it would occasion to the general business of the country, especially in the rural districts, when the change took place, nor how serious the results might be.

The clause too that exempts the deposit from legal process and places it beyond the pale of the law, if legal, effectually defeats the operations of the bankrupt law in case of all small failures, if the party failing is disposed to be dishonest. Such a party could gradually deposit his entire assets up to $1,000 for himself and $1,000 for each member of his family in the postal savings bank and draw 2 per cent. without taxation as long as he and they lived and no one could reach it. We cannot think this provision of the bill will become a law, even if the measure itself is favorably considered by Congress.

Another point to be considered is the statement or imputation that the banks are not safe in this country and therefore the government should go into the business for the better protection of the people. In view of the amount that has been said on this subject, it will interest and may surprise some to know that the loss to savings bank depositors during 1906 was less than three-ten thousandths of one per cent. If the vast sum now deposited in the savings funds of the country was placed in the proverbial stocking or buried by the individual depositors, the total loss would undoubtedly be much greater than has actually occurred through bank failures. The people are not demanding the establishment of postal savings banks, it is the politicians who have put a postal savings bank plank into the platforms of the principal parties, with a view to attract the attention of the public, at a time when the panic of 1907 was still fresh in the minds of the people.

The people, who are the depositors, will gain nothing but lose much by such a measure, for the rate of interest which is now 3 1-2 and 4 per cent. will be reduced to 2 per cent. which difference applied to the total savings deposits of this country will represent to them a total loss per annum of $60,980,300, an amount 500 times the average annual loss now sustained through savings bank failures; to which should be added the cost of conducting the business which must also be borne by the people. The loss of $60,000,000 annually to the people is not the only serious objection to the measure.

When the United States of America takes these deposits on demand from her citizens, she must expect to pay them back as any other debtor, this will be easy in times of peace and prosperity, but the burden becomes most serious in times of war, at such times the government will have, not only to provide for the means to carry on war, but in addition will have to pay the money which its own people will demand.

How real this trouble may be, the English government has reason to know, for during the Boer War, she was forced to sell her consuls, to pay vast sums to her postoffice savings bank depositors, as well as for her war expenses, the price of consuls was thereby greatly depressed and the government and indirectly the people sustained great loss and embarrassment. The depositors themselves in some cases called for their deposits to buy the consuls because they were cheap, thus forcing larger sales and lower prices.

There will be wars and rumors of wars until the end of time, seasons of depression will come as do the tides of the ocean, and just as surely the government that runs a postal savings bank will have to meet the issue. Many students of finance and many profound statesmen of postal savings bank countries, contend, that if the system could be gotten rid of, it would be gladly abolished. Then why adopt it in this county?

Nor is this all, nor is it the worst of the evils that will certainly come with the adoption of the measure. The most serious problem is the investment of the funds after they are gathered by the government. At present the money deposited in the 23,000 banks of our country is invested largely and almost exclusively in the communities where the banks are located, the money received by them is loaned to the neighbors of those repositing and the community grows by reason of the aid and assistance thus given and the encouragement thus extended to business enterprises. If these vast sums are withdrawn from the banks where it is now deposited and from the business of the communities, in which it is now employed, it will seriously disturb trade conditions, especially if these funds are to be sent to Washington for the government to invest. Great Britain transmits all of her postoffice savings bank money to London and there the government invests it; Ireland was thus drained in the month of June 1906 by the transmission of $65,000,000.

How much greater would have been the advantage to Ireland if these deposits had remained at home and been used for the upbuilding of this needy country, so it will necessarily be in this country with those sections that are farthest removed and most thinly setled and least able to help themselves. In order to meet this objection: amendments have been offered to the principal bill to cure the evil by providing, that these postal saving bank funds, shall be deposited in National Banks that are United States Depositories, or in National Banks designated by the Postmaster General, located at or near the place where the funds are gathered at 2 1-2 per cent. interest. There are three times as many State banks and trust companies as there are National banks, and of the National banks only a comparatively few can be thus utilized, then why use the machinery of the Postoffice Department to enrich the few banks thus favored for political or other reasons at the expense of the many, that are perhaps better and stronger, by allowing the money order offices of the government to gather the funds for them, at a cost of only 2 1-2 per cent. interest per annum. Stripped of all subterfuge it would mean government guarantee for the deposits thus diverted to these banks, to the great detriment of all the others. This feature of the bill savors of so much injustice, if not of dangerous partiality that it should condemn the measure, even if it could be successfully worked. But if the funds are thus gathered and thus deposited, where in is the depositor benefitted? He could under the present system deposit his money in these same banks at 4 per cent. interest without the advice of the Postmaster General, which would cost him 2 per cent per annum. In any event the depositor would be very little better off in security and much worse off in the income from his investment.

Postmaster General Meyer in arguing for the Postal Savings Banks, claims that during the panic many people took out Postoffice money orders payable to themselves because of their greater confidence in the government. This was doubtless so in some cases, and if it is desirable, why not let it remain so? The people can avail themselves of the government protection in this way if they choose to do so in times of panic without interest or additional cost of administration on the part of the government. If they choose to do this, they could thus comfort themselves when the scare was on and again deposit in the banks at the higher rate of interest when it was over; thus the banks would prosper and grow in strength, the local communities would thrive, besides keeping itself clear of a business venture, which would surely prove to be most embarrassing in times of war and financial trouble. The investment of this postal savings bank fund when collected, would not be serious at first when the deposits amounted to little, but as they grew in amount to billions of dollars, the problem would be different. Where and how could the government invest it?

Perhaps in real estate, most naturally in internal improvements, such as the Panama Canal, in public buildings, in roads and gradually the idea will develop that the railroads, the telegraph lines, the telephone companies and express companies should belong to the government. Already we have seen the tendency of the public mind in this direction, and the rapidity with which we are moving may land us fully and quickly into government ownership of railroads and other utilities, if by means of a postal savings bank or some such measure the capital is obtainable.

This danger is not imaginary, but most real—the war against railroad rates, the establishment of National and State Railway Commissions, the growth of socialistic ideas among the people all tend to show the drift of public opinion, to which is added the allurements to the politicians who see in it all increased power and patronage for himself and his party.

The government is loosening from its old moorings and is in great danger of drifting with this current into deep waters.

The idea seems to prevail with some that the Federal Government can do anything it pleases, when in reality it is restricted by the Constitution of the United States to only such things as are ennumerated therein, which are sovereign powers of porviding for general defence, protection of commerce, declaring war, levying of taxes and the like, while all such matters as the conduct of general business affairs was retained by the States. When the National Banks were first established it was a serious question and only finally passed because they were thought necessary to control the character of the currency of the country and protect its credit; there is no necessity for Postal Savings Banks and unless an unmistakable necessity exists it is doubtful if the Federal Government can constitutionally create them, at any rate it is a great stretch of Constitutional authority to extend the power to wield and extend post roads, to gathering deposits upon which interest is to be paid by the government.

The regulation of Inter-State business by wise legislation is a safe position for the government to maintain, but to control and operate enterprises is quite a different and more dangercus position to take.

There are defects in our laws affecting banks and our currency legislation is defective, these troubles have been emphasized by the recent panic in this country and a Montary Commission has been appointed by Congress to study and report upon the subject.

The able and patriotic statesmen composing this Commission have been and are now diligently at work upon a bill that will be designed to cure present defects and provide for future needs. Let us hope that it will provide for examination and regulation but not management and control, and that from their combined wisdom may come a measure that all persons, especially the bankers, can approve and support, that will disturb as little as possible existing conditions, that will provide ample and stable credit currency that can be used in time of panic, that will also unify our banking system, so that there can be concert of action, rather than defensive tactics in times of trouble and that will leave the General Government free at all times to aid and assist the banks, so important to general business and commercial interests, and in no way enter the field as a competitor or the ally of one class of institutions to the detriment of others Such a measure should and would, I feel sure, receive the hearty support of every banker and right minded citizen of this country.

Every one would be benefitted by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for constipation, stomach and liver trouble, as it sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Robt. R. Bellamy.

WOODARD-BENNETT NUPTIALS.

A Pretty Marriage at Shallotte—Reception Tendered Couple.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Shallotte, N. C., June 15.—One of the prettiest marriages which has occurred here in some time, was that solemnized this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Bennett, uniting in marriage Miss Daisy Bennett to Mr. J. C. Woodard, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Woodard, of Old Hundred, N. C., Rev. T. C. Ellers, pastor of the Shallotte Circuit M. E. Church, officiating.

The groom was accompanied by his brother, Mr. Tally M. Woodard, as best man, while Miss C. Ruth White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. White, of this place, was maid of honor. The bridal party formed before an improvised altar in the parlor of the home, where the words were impressively spoken, which made them man and wife.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was tendered in honor of the bride and groom, at which they received the congratulations of a large number of friends upon this happy union. The bride is an attractive young lady of this place, and is well known and loved by a large circle of friends here and elsewhere. The groom is a young man of genial disposition and has many friends and acquaintances throughout Eastern North Carolina. He is an ex-member of this year's graduating class at Trinity College, Durham, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodard will leave on Wednesday for their new home in Florence, S. C., where the groom holds an important position as principal of one of the graded schools there.

SOME BRITISH "BULLS."

Amusing Answers to Serious Questions in Insurance Blanks.

(Cable to The Washington Post.)

London, May 22.—A number of amusing answers to questions put to applicants for life insurance have been collected by the British Medical Journal. Here are some of them:

Mother died in infancy.

An uncle died of cancer, on his mother's side.

Father went to bed feeling well and the next morning woke up dead.

Grandfather died suddenly at the age of 103. Up to this time he bid fair to reach a ripe old age.

Applicant does not know anything about maternal posterity except that they died at an advanced age.

Applicant does not know cause of mother's death, but states that she fully recovered from her last illness.

Applicant has never been fatally sick.

Father died suddenly; nothing serious.

Applicant's brother, who was an infant, died when he was a mere child

Grandfather died from gunshot wound, caused by an arrow shot by an Indian.

Applicant's fraternal parents died when he was a child.

Mother's last illness was caused from chronic rheumatism, but she was cured before death.

DR. H. G. HILL.

An Appreciation of Venerable and Highly Esteemed Minister.

(Charlotte Observer, 16th.)

Rev. Dr. H. G. Hill, of Maxton, the venerable pastor of the Maxton and Centre Presbyterian churches, who spent yesterday and last night in the city in attendance upon the sessions of the board of regents of Barium Springs Orphanage, is one of the most eminent ministers in the Southern General Assembly. He was asked a few days ago the number of sermons he had preached. After thinking a short time he responded that his recollection as to figures did not go farther back than 1871, but that since that time he had preached, approximately 4,900 sermons and had delivered something like 2,200 addresses. Dr. Hill is about 77 years of age and is a splendid type of that robust, militant clergy of by-gone days. He has held almost every honor in the gift of his Church, having served as moderator of the Synod of North Carolina and moderator of the General Assembly. For the past 36 years he has been a member of the board of trustees of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., and for 36 years he has been chairman of the home missions committee of Fayetteville Presbytery. Dr. Hill, while in the city, was the guest of his friend, Rev. Dr. P. R. Law, at the Central.

In Eastern and Southern railway circles there are few more intersting qustions just at this time than those regarding the future of the Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio Railroad. It is generally recognized that this line has in it the possibility of revolutionizing railroad conditions in the South Atlantic States, and is certainly destined to play a conspicuous part in the development of all this territory.

—Tarboro Southerner: "During this month the Atlantic Coast Line has paid out here to satisfy judgments for damages $20,000; $12,000 and interest to D. D. Wagner, for injuries sustained in stepping from train when on river trestle, and $7,500 to the banks and knitting mills sustained by fire, which originated from sparks from locomotives, setting fire to grass, and then to the cotton and cotton yarns stored in the Bank of Tarboro storage building."

HAVE YOU KIDNEY TROUBLE?

One or more of the following symptoms may indicate that you have; sharp shooting pains in the small of the back and loins, cloudy or smoky urine, whittish or reddish sediment in urine, too scanty, highly colored urine, bloody urine, too frequently desires, scalding or smarting pains in passing, irregular heart action, puffiness under the eyes, nervousness, restlessness, general debility, swelling of the lower limbs, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, gravel, etc. Rydale's Kidney Remedy is guaranteed to quickly relieve and permanently cure all forms of Kidney, Bladder and Urinary diseases. Court Dwarfs.

Until about little more than a century ago dwarfs were frequently kept as court toys. Records of them might be multiplied almost indefinitely.

Bebe, the dwarf of Stanislaus, king of Poland, lived to be ninety years of age, dying in Paris in 1858, and is variously described as having measured thirty-five inches and twenty-three inches. Julia, niece of Augustus, had two dwarfs, each twenty-eight inches in height, and Henrietta Maria had two whose joint height was seven feet two inches. The Emperor Augustus had a dwarf named Lucius whose height was two feet and weight seventeen pounds. The last court dwarf in England was Coppernin, who belonged to the Princess of Wales, mother of George III.

An Isle of Man Oath.

What is regarded as the quaintest oath still in use is that taken by the high court judges in the Isle of Man, the terms of which are as follows: "By this book and the contents thereof and by the wonderful works that God hath miraculously wrought in the heaven above and the earth beneath in six days and six nights I do swear that I will, without respect of favor or friendship, loss or gain, consanguinity or affinity, envy or malice, execute the laws of this isle justly between party and party as indifferently as the herring backbone doth lie in the midst of the fish. So help me God and the contents of this book."

Selfishness.

Jones worked so hard and denied himself so much in order to pay his life insurance that he had neither the time nor the means to be sick, and he outlived all the beneficiaries, who were meanwhile engaged in the relatively unhealthy business of lying back and waiting for him to die. Moreover, in thinking of the matter he became convinced that he had a good deal of fun, after all—more fun, indeed, than most.

"I'm a terribly selfish fellow," exclaimed Jones guiltily.—Puck.

Politely Bounced.

A good example of the extremely courteous in public correspondence was the notice sent to Charles James Fox that he was no longer a member of the government of George III. It read thus: "His gracious majesty has been pleased to issue a new commission in which your name does not appear."

To cast away a good friend is like wasting away one's life.—Aristotle.

Victims of Obesity

Cure Yourself at Home in Comfort

As a bodily affliction Obesity often seems to be inexplicable, so rapid is the increase of weight and bulk, even in cases where the victims are studiously temperate in eating, etc. There is evidently a predisposition that way, and neglect only tends to confirm it. The remedies tried may have grievously disappointed you.

Here is one that will not do so, and you may get the ingredients at your druggist's and mix them yourself without trouble: Ask for 1-2 oz. Marmola, 1-2 oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3 1-2 oz. Peppermint Water. Shake together in a goodsized clean bottle. Simply take this mixture after each meal and at bedtime, one teaspoonful to the dose, and give yourself no further trouble; the superfluous fat will subside with wonderful rapidity.

Dieting need not worry you in the least, nor is violent exercising at all desirable. Wasting methods of weight reduction are not natural. Try the pleasant treatment above prescribed for a week or so, and you will be fit strong and free from all bodily discomfort, besides having regained correct weight and a shapely figure.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—John Gale is a trader at Flambeau, a rough outpost of civilization in Alaska. His daughter Necia is a beautiful young girl, generally believed to be a half breed, daughter of Gale and the Indian squaw Alluna, with whom he lives. Some hidden burden weighs continually on the trader's mind, and he views with apprehension the arrival of a squad of soldiers at Flambeau. "That means the law," he says uneasily to Necia, who has become acquainted with and admired by Lieutenant Burrell, commander of the soldiers. II—It becomes known that Napoleon Roret, an honest, faithful French Canadian employed by Gale, is deeply in love with Necia. One Runnion, a dissolute gambler and "bad man," arrives at Flambeau by steamer and in a fight with Burrell is worsted and forced to leave the town. On the departing steamer's deck he menacingly says, "I will return to take a hand in the game." III—Doret gives Necia a handsome silk gown brought by him from Dawson City for her. Arrayed in this, she meets Lieutenant Burrell, who falls madly in love with her, and he wonders if her blood is really tainted. Gale re-asserts that she is the illegitimate daughter of himself and the squaw. IV.—Runnion returns with Ben Stark, a professional gambler and man killer with plenty of money. Stark builds a saloon and dance hall at Flambeau. "No Creek" Lee discovers gold in a valley some miles distant, and Necia persuades Burrell to take her there and locate a claim for her, their trip requiring a day and a night in the forest. V, VI and VII—Gale, Lee, Runnion and Stark have gone together to the site of Lee's discovery to locate claims. They are met by Necia and Burrell, and a bitter quarrel ensues. Runnion and Stark conspire to rob Necia of her claims. Runnion wants the girl, and Stark finds that Necia has a strange, unexplainable fascination for him. His baby daughter had been stolen years before. Burrell becomes the declared enemy of both Stark and Runnion. A gun held by Gale is discharged, the bullet accidentally, he claims, narrowly missing Stark. VIII—Gale knows Stark to be an old enemy of his father and Necia, and Alluna, his squaw, says: "Kill Stark. Take the knife of my father. To kill is the law." IX, X, XI, XII and XIII—Necia, believing herself a half-breed, fears she cannot marry Burrell, whom she loves, as she learns that her tainted blood will bar her from meeting the people he naturally associates with, and she overhears Burrell say he may not marry her after all. Stark persuades her to leave Flambeau after he discovers her to be his daughter.

His first impulse had been to tell her everything, but his amazement had rendered him speechless, and now he was thankful for it. Care must be exercised. She must not learn too much, for if she suspected the truth she would go to her soldier lover at once, and no power on earth could hold her back. That would block the vengeance that he saw shaping in the dank recesses of his distorted brain.

First, and above all, he must get the girl away from Flambeau.

These last few moments had driven Necia's own worries from her mind, but he was bent on recalling them and so continued cautiously:

"You were saying that you thought you'd go away. I think that's a good plan, and you'd be wise to do it for more reasons than one. It will give you time to think it all over and know your own mind. I want to help you—I'm going to help you—because I've got an interest in you like you were mine." Again he betrayed that strange, mirthless amusement.

"Let me out of here!" the girl demanded imperiously.

"There is no place for me to go," said Necia blankly, "except the mission, and I have no way of getting there."

"Don't you worry. I'll furnish the means, and you'd better go tonight"—she flinched—"yes, tonight. There's no use prolonging your agony. I'll get a boat ready and send a trusty man with you. The current is swift, and if he rows well you can make it by tomorrow evening. That's only one night out, and I'll put some blankets aboard so you can wrap up and have a sleep."

"I must go back and get some clothes," she said, at which he would have demurred had he not seen that she could not travel in her present condition.

"Very well. But don't let anybody see you."

"Of course not."

"It's getting late, and your folks will be abed." He looked at his watch. "Midnight! Be here in an hour."

The light of sacrifice was in Necia's eyes, and her cheeks were blanched with the pallor of a great resolution.

"I'll be here in an hour," she said simply.

He let her out, closed the door after her and locked it; then, drawing a deep breath, he raised his clinched hands above his head and gave a great sigh of exultation. Next he took out his six shooter and examined it carefully. The shells did not suit him, so he filled the gun with new ones, loosened the three lower buttons of his vest and slid the weapon inside his trousers band; then, facing the direction of Gale's trading post, he spoke aloud:

"I was a long time coming, Gaylord, but I'm here, and I've got you where I've wanted you these fifteen years! Yes, and I've got you, too, Burrell! By heaven, this is my night!"

His lithe body became panther-like in poise, his bearing that of the meat eating animal, and his face set in a fierce, exultant cruelty as he blew out his light and left the cabin.

CHAPTER XIV.

A MYSTERY IS UNRAVELED.

LIEUTENANT BURRELL was considerably taken aback when a quarter of an hour after the young lover's ecstatic return to his quarters Gale knocked at his door, for the trader's visit, coupled with the late hour and his somber countenance, forecast new complications.

"He's here to object, but it won't go," thought the lieutenant as he made his visitor welcome.

Meade swung his big reading chair out beneath the hanging lamp and, going to the sideboard, brought back a bottle, some glasses and a pouch of tobacco. Noting the old man's sigh of fatigue as he sat himself down heavily, he remarked sympathetically:

"Mr. Gale, you've made a long trip today and you must be tired. If this talk is to be lengthy, why not have a drink with me now and postpone it until tomorrow?"

"I've been tired for eighteen years," the other replied. "Tonight I hope to get rested."

"Well, let's get at it," the younger man finally said.

"I suppose you'll want to interrupt and question me a heap, but I'll ask you to let me tell this story the way it comes to me till I get it out. Likewise you'll want to know what all this has to do with you and Necia. Yes; she told me about you and her, and that's why I'm here." He paused. "You really think you love her, do you?"

Burrell removed his pipe and gazed at its coal impersonally.

"I love her so well, Mr. Gale, that nothing you can say will affect me. I—I hesitated at first about asking her to be my wife because—you'll appreciate the unusual—well, her unusual history. You see, I come from a country where mixed blood is about the only thing that can't be lived down or overlooked, and I've been raised with notions of family honor and pride of race and birth, and so forth, that might seem preposterous and absurd to you. But a heap of conceits like that have been bred into me from generations back. They run in the blood of every old family in my country, and so, I'm ashamed to say, I hesitated and tried to reason myself into giving her up, but I've had my eyes opened, and I see how little those things amount to, after all. I'm going to marry Necia, Mr. Gale. I'd like to do it the day after tomorrow, Sunday, but she isn't of age yet, and if you object we'll have to wait until November, when she turns eighteen. We'd both like your consent, of course. I'd be sorry to marry her without it. But if you refuse we'll be forced to displease you." He looked up and met the father's gaze steadily.

The other man's lips framed a faint smile.

"We'll see. I wish to God I'd had your decision when I was your age. This story would be different and easier to tell." He waited a moment, then settled to his self appointed task. "I was mining at the time up in the mother lode country of California, which was the frontier then, pretty much as this is now, only we had better things to eat. I was one of the first men into a camp named Chandon—helped to build it, in fact—and got hold of some ground that looked real good. It was hard mining, however, and, being poor, I was still gripping my drill and hammer after the town had grown up.

"A woman came out from the east—Vermont it was—and schoolteaching was her line of business, only she hadn't been raised to it, and this was her first clatter at the game. Her folks died and left her up against it, I gathered from what little she told me—sort of an old story, I guess, and usual, too, only for her. She was plumb unusual."

He seemed to ponder this a moment and then resumed:

"It don't make any difference to you how I first saw her and how I began to forget that anything else in the world was worth having but her. I'd lived in the woods all my life, as I said, and knew more about birds and bugs and bees than I did about women. I hadn't been broke proper and didn't know how to act with them, but I laid out to get this girl, and I did fairly well. There's something wild in every woman that needs to be tamed, and it isn't like the wildness that runs in wood critters. You can win that over by gentleness, but you have to take it away from a woman. Every live thing that couldn't talk was my friend, but I made the mistake of courting my own kind the same way, not knowing that when two of any species mate the male must rule. I was too gentle. Even so, I reckon I'd have won out only for another man. Dan Bennett was his name—the kind that dumb animals hate, and—well, that takes his measure. His range adjoined mine, and, though I'd never seen him, I heard stories now and then—the sort of tales you can't tell to a good woman—so it worried me when I heard of his attentions to this girl. Still, I thought she'd surely find him out and recognize the kind of fellow he was; but, Lord, a woman can't tell a man from a dog, and there wasn't any one to warn her.

"This Bennett came from the town below, where he ran a saloon and a brace game or two; but, being as he rode into our camp and out again in the night and as I didn't drink nor listen to the music of the little rolling ball, why, we never met even after he began coming to Chandon. Understand, I wasn't too good for those amusements. I just didn't happen to hanker after them, for I was living with the image of the little schoolma'am in my mind, and that destroyed what bad habits I'd formed.

"It was along in the early spring that she began to see I had notions about her, but my d——d backwardness wouldn't let me speak, and, in addition, I was getting closer to ore every shot at the mine and was holding off until I could lay both myself and my gold mine at her feet and ask her to take the two of us, so if one didn't pan out the other might. But it seemed like I'd never get into pay. The closer I got the harder I worked, and, of course, the less I saw of her, likewise the oftener Bennett came. I reckon no man ever worked like I did—two shifts a day, eighteen hours, with six to sleep. The skin came off of my hands, and I staggered when I came out into the daylight. At last I struck it, and still I waited awhile longer till I could be sure. Then I went down to my little shack and put on my other clothes. I remember I'd gone so thin that they hung loose, and my palms were so raw I had hard work handling the buttons and got my shirt all bloody, for I'd been in the drift forty hours without sleep and breathing powder smoke till my knees buckled and wabbled under me. To this day the smell of stale powder smoke makes a woman of me, but that morning I sang, for I was going for my bride, and the world was brighter than it has ever been for eighteen years. The little schoolhouse was closed, at which I remembered that the term was over. I'd been living underground for weeks and lost track of the days, so that I had to count them up on my fingers. It took me a long time, for I was pretty tired in my head, but when I'd figured it out I went on to where she was boarding.

"The woman of the place came to the door, a Scotchwoman. She had a mole on her chin, I remember, a brownish black mole with three hairs in it. She wore an apron, too, that was kind of checkered, and three buttons were open at the neck of her dress. I recall a lot more of little things about her, though the rest of what happened is rather dreamy.

"I asked for Merridy, and she told me she'd gone away—gone with Bennett the night before, while I was coughing blood from the powder smoke; that they were married in the front room and that the bride looked beautiful. She had cried a bit on leaving Chandon and—and—that was about all. I counted the buttons on the Scotchwoman's waist eight or ten times, and by and by she asked if I was sick. But I wasn't. She was a kind hearted woman, and I'd been to her house a good deal, so she asked me to come in and rest. I wasn't tired, so I went away and climbed back up to the little shack and the mine that I hated now.

"I turned into a kind of hermit after that, and I wasn't good to associate with. Men got so they shunned me, and I knew they told strange stories, because I heard them whisper when I went to the stores for grub once a month.

"From time to time I heard of her, but the news, instead of gladdening me, as it would have gladdened some men, wrung out what bits of suffering were left in me, and I fairly ached for her. Nobody comes to see clearer than a woman deceived, so it didn't take her long to find out the kind of man Bennett was. He wasn't like her at all, and the reason he had courted her so hotly was just that he had had everything that rightly belongs to a man like him and had sickened of it, so he wanted her because she was clean and pure and different, and, realizing that he couldn't get her any other way, he had married her. But she was a treasure no bad man could appreciate, and so he tired quickly, even before the little one came.

"When I heard that she had borne him a daughter I wrote her a letter, which took me a month to compose and which I tore up. One day a story came to me that made me saddle my horse to ride down and kill him—and, mind you, I was a man who made pets of little wild, trusting things. But I knew she would surely send for me when her pain became too great, so I uncinched my gear and hung it up and waited and waited and waited. Three long, endless years I waited, almost within sound of her voice, without a word from her, without a glimpse of her, and every hour of that time went by as slowly as if I had held my breath. Then she called to me, and I went.

"I tell you, I was thankful that day for the fortune that had made me take good care of my horse, for I rode like Death on a windstorm. I rode through the streets of Mesa, where they lived, and past the lights of Bennett's big saloon, where I heard the sound of devil's revelry and a shrill voiced woman singing—a woman the like of which he had tried to make my Merridy. I never skulked or sneaked in those days, and no man ever made me take back roads, so I came up to his house from the front and tied my horse to his gatepost. She heard me on the steps and opened the door.

"'You sent for me,' said I. 'Where is he?' But he had gone away to a neighboring camp and wouldn't be back until morning, at which I felt the way a thief must feel, for I'd hoped to meet him in his own house. I couldn't think very clearly, however, because of the change in her. She was so thin and worn and sad—sadder than any woman I'd ever seen. I'd changed a heap myself. Anyhow that was the first thing she spoke about, and the tears came into her eyes as she breathed:

"'Poor boy! You took it very hard, didn't you?'

"'You sent for me,' said I. 'Which road did he take?'

"'There's nothing you can do,' she answered. 'I sent to make sure that you still love me.'

"'Did you ever doubt it?' said I, at which she began to cry like a woman who has worn out all emotion.

"'Can you feel the same after what I've made you suffer?' she said, and I reckon she must have read the answer in my eyes, for I never was much good at talking, and the sight of her, so changed, had taken the speech out of me, leaving nothing but aches and pains and ashes in its place. When she saw what she wished to know she told me the story—the whole miserable story—that I'd heard enough of to suspect. Why she'd married the other man she couldn't explain herself, except that it was a woman's whim—I had stayed away, and he had come the oftener—part pique and part the man's daredevil fascination.

"'He's a fiend,' she told me. 'I've stood all I can. He'll make a bad woman of me as sure as he will of the little one if I stay on here, so I have decided to go and take her with me.'

"'Where?' said I.

"'Wherever you say,' she answered, and yet I did not understand, not till I saw the look in her eyes. Then as it dawned on me she broke down, for it was a terrible thing for a good woman to offer.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles, causing backache, irregularities, dizziness and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk upstairs without stopping on the way. I tried three different doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them, but seemed to suffer more. The last doctor said nothing would restore my health. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and I am restored to my natural health."—Mrs. Etta Donovan, Box 299, Willimantic, Conn.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

THE COTTON MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 19.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 2 points and ruled very quiet during the early trading with prices easing off to a net decline of about 3 to 4 points under scattering liquidation for over the week end. The Liverpool cables were about a stand-off while bullish week-end figures were offset by favorable weather and improving crop accounts, and there seemed to be nothing in the morning's news to stimulate fresh operations on either side of the account. The market closed barely steady with prices net 2 to 3 points lower.

Receipts at the ports today 4,000 bales against 3,482 last week and 5,703 last year; for the week 35,000 bales against 33,540 last week and 43,423 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 1,779 bales against 1,604 last year and at Houston 666 bales against 1,529 last year.

Spot cotton closed quiet; middling uplands 11:40; middling gulf 11:65; no sales. Futures opened steady and closed barely steady.

THE DRY GOCDs MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 19.—The dry goods market was generally quiet for the day with strength maintained conspicuously in cotton and woolen goods. Cotton yarns are in request for late July at prices mills will not accept. Linens are active. Large sales of burlaps have been made for future delivery.

MARKET GOSSIP.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 19.—Little vitality was shown by the stock market today, dealings being small and the action of prices sluggish and hesitating. The week's settlement and the possible sequence are too doubtful to encourage confident operations in stocks. A factor in the hesitation was the circulation of reports that private banking advices from Paris asserted that the French government has irrevocably decided not to sanction the listing of United States Steel on the Paris bourse. The principal banking house associated in the project expressed its disbelief in this report and maintained its tone of hopefulness over the ultimate outcome to be received. The bank statement shows extraordinary discrepancy between the loan changes in the averages and the actual comparison, the avertge loans increasing $10,377,000 while in the acutla comparison there has been a violent contraction of $35,277,500, the discrepancy thus rising to over $45,500,000. The final prices of stocks showed unimportant changes generally from last night.

Bonds were steady. Total sales par value $1,339,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call for the week. Total sales today 191,100 shares.

FINANCIAL MARKET.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, June 19.—Money on call nominal. Time loans steady and rather active, sixty days 2 to 2 1-2 per cent., and ninety day 2 1-4 to 2 3-4; six months 3 1-2. Prime mercantile paper 3 1-2 to 4 per cent. Sterling exchange strong with actual business in bankers bills at 4.8630 to 40 for sixty day bills and at 4.8795 to 4.88 for deman. Commercial bills 4.85 1-2 to 4.86. Bar silver 52 3-8; Mexican dollars 44.

12 Innings at Rocky Mount.

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 19.—The contest between the Wilson Tobacconists and the Railroaders went for twelve innings and was anybody's game until the twelfth today when with no one down and James on third Walsh sacrifice flied to right and James trotted across for the only run of game. Krebs saved the day for the crew in the tenth when with two down and a runner on second he pulled down a line drive from Mills' bat that would have undoubtedly netted him two bases. Farrell pitched for the Tobaconists and yielded but three hits, two of which connected with an error played havoc with his game. Thorpe, the Carlisle pitcher, for the second time this week proved his effectiveness and gave up four hits. He was not to be touched when a hit was needed for run gettin. Score:

Rocky Mt. ..000 000 000 001—1 3 1
Wilson .....000 000 000 000—0 4 2

Batteries—Thorpe and Walsh; Farrell and Holt; umpires Gilmore and Stephens; time 2:35; attendance 1,200.

Fayetteville Takes One.

Fayetteville, N. C., June 19.—Fayetteville defeated Goldsboro 3 to 0 today, scoring twice in the first inning on a base on balls and two errors and again in the third when Dobson was hit in the head with a thrown ball which bounced in the bleachers. Shumaker got two clean hits in two times up. Fayetteville played an errorless game. Score:

Goldsboro .....000 000 000—0 5 2

Batteries—Finn and Fulton; Hallman and Galvin; umpire Barr; time 1:50.

PICK-UPS.

Boo! Hoo!

Wilmington one—but Raleigh two!

This time it was Mr. Brandon's lucky day.

The Highlanders passed the Giants the Hot Scotch!

We know Brandon carried a rabbit foot in that game.

Hemp was in right, and made a classy stab of Dawson's fly in the third.

That Force of Brodie at the pan was enough to bring tears to the eyes of Sunny Jim himself.

Kite was decidedly off in his throwing and awled holes in the atmosphere in one or two places over station 2.

If the Sailors continue turning out an errorless game a la yesterday the Tobacconists will sure have to smoke-up to make a killing.

Sharpie smothered a screamer with mailed hand, the product of Brumfield's bat in the 5th and got an ovation.

Won't it be pie for the Raleigh inkslinger? It took him a day or so to recover from Thursday's affair, but now he's at it again.

Dr. Levy again did the pill-rolling for the Sailors, but the Red Birds took kindly to his offerings at two different times, and chalked up their total.

Why isn't Conn given a show! We've all seen his winging and know what it is, and he might be swatting the ball instead of bench-warming.

Big Chief Thorpe worked his kibosh on Wilson, not allowing a single Tobacconist to beat his way back home.

Fayetteville and Rocky Mount, shake!

Storm-tossed, but not yet a derelict. The beginning was just lovely, but the ending was about as joyful as a neck full of boils and Barnum's in town.

Grainger was the bright particular star in left. Besides pulling down everything skied in his neighborhood, he made a sensational running catch of Brumfeld's near-hit, basketed a sacrifice, created a vacuum in centre for a clean single, and scored Wilmington's only run.

Just as we expected; after maintaining quite a dignified and respectful silence during his period of mourning for Raleigh's two dropped games to Rocky Mount and Wilmington, the Observer dopist has again opened the flood gates and spreads with his literary trowel many pleasing things on how near the Red Birds came to whitewashing Wilmington on Friday. He ought to have fallen back a day and expressed himself on the crash we administered Thursday.
